ISLAND STRATEGIC IN ITS CONTROL OF NEEDED RESOURCES

C. P. W. Schwengers at up-Island Meeting Stirs New Confidence in Island Opportunities; Victoria Big Brother to Rest of Island, He Declares.

Cobble Hill, Aug. 28.—C. P. W. Schwengers, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, in a brilliant address last night, stirred delegates attending the quarterly meeting of the Duncan Board of Trade at Cobble Hill to renewed optimism and confidence in the possibilities and opportunities of Vancouver Island.

"I doubt if we have come as yet to a full realization of the beneficence of Providence in this most favored land and where we have opportunities, almost unequalled for the utilization of our material, physical and mental well-being," Mr. Schwengers said.

"The commerce conducted on this Island is on a staple and solid basis not surpassed anywhere in Canada. Commercial failures are almost unknown, and those who have the will to work can by their labor not alone make a good living, but store up for a rainy day under conditions of life which are the envy of every visitor. Society is on a footing of equality with the highest standard of Anglo-Saxon civilization, and crime is very rare, chiefly on account of the high standard of our citizenship, and also owing to lack of incentive.

"Nature with us is found in her most charming aspects. Our mountains and forests are teeming with game and all that interests man, our lakes and streams and seashores are full of fish and offer commercial employment and pleasurable recreation. Our valleys are fertile, and our climate calls us to all this great out-of-doors the whole year round, where sports and games can be indulged in

B.C. INCREASED EMPLOYMENT IN MONTH OF JULY

Only Province in Canada Able to Make That Report, Returns From Firms Show

Conditions Throughout the Country Are Better Than in 1921 and 1922

Ottawa, Aug. 28—British Columbia was the only Province in Canada which recorded an increase in employment in July.

This is shown by returns to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics from 5,727 firms throughout Canada. It was reported that up to the beginning of August more than 10,000 persons had been released from employment by these firms.

BETTER THAN 1921-22

The employment situation throughout Canada, while not so good as on August 1, 1923, continues better than in 1921 or 1922. Firms in the manufacturing division as a whole, notably in iron and steel and in logging and railway construction, reported curtailment of activity. Shipping, stevedoring, building and highway construction showed continued improvement.

Canneries registered large additions to staffs.

LOEB AND LEOPOLD SENTENCE SEPT. 10

Judge Caverly to Announce Decision in Chicago That Day

Public Will Not be Admitted to Courtroom to Hear the Sentence

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Judge John R. Caverly took the Franks kidnapping and murder case, in which Nathan F. Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb pleaded guilty, under advisement to-day at 11.49 a.m. He announced he would give his decision, fixing the penalty for the double crime, on September 10 at 9.30 a.m.

None will be admitted to court that day, the judge ruled, save defendants, attorneys, court attaches and newspapermen.

CROWE WAS SCORED

The judge announced the date of sentence after portions of the closing argument of Robert E. Crowe, state attorney, had been stricken from the record by order of the judge, as "a cowardly, dastardly attack upon the integrity of this court and an attempt to intimidate it."

The remarks of the court startled the crowded courtroom into a shocked silence.

Mr. Crowe's jaw dropped and he blanched visibly under the judicial broadside.

"Your honor, I had"—he began, but the judge interrupted him.

FAR AND WIDE

"The state attorney knew full well that his remarks would be heralded far and wide," said the judge. "He knew, too, the court would have no opportunity to reply or defend himself from criticism except by the action he has taken."

BODY EXHUMED IN VANCOUVER TO-DAY

Second Inquest on Death of Miss Janet Smith Next Tuesday

Police Making Every Possible Effort to Find Explanation of Tragedy

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—Examination of the remains of Janet Smith, who died as the result of a bullet wound in her brain in the home of F. L. Baker on Shaughnessy Heights here July 26, was completed this morning at Mountain View Cemetery, and the body is now resting in the city morgue.

Provincial Police and undertakers supervised the exhumation, which was started shortly after 8 o'clock and took little more than an hour to complete.

Dr. G. F. Curtis awaited the arrival of the body at the city morgue, where at 11 o'clock, in the presence of Dr. A. W. Hunter and other surgeons retained by the Council of Scottish Societies, the autopsy was commenced.

CAREFUL EXAMINATION

This consisted of a careful examination for the purpose of arriving at a conclusion as to how the injuries sustained by the girl were received, the nature of the wound in the head and the surrounding extensive fractures of the skull being the subject of close scrutiny, in view of the suggestion that the victim of the tragedy was struck with some blunt instrument prior to the death bullet being fired.

CANADIAN DOLLAR QUOTED AT PREMIUM IN NEW YORK, BEING HIGHEST SINCE DECEMBER, 1922

New York, Aug. 28. (Canadian Press)—The Canadian dollar was quoted at 1-32 of one per cent premium in the New York market to-day. The quotation was the highest since December 1922.

Later the quotation fell back to par.

On March 11 of this year the low mark was established for the year at 3½ per cent discount.

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—At a slight premium in New York, the Canadian dollar stood for a time to-day the highest in the world. The quotation of 1-32 of one per cent premium was the highest since the Government of Canada floated a $100,000,000 loan in New York in 1922.

The present situation is regarded as temporary and due to heavy borrowings in the New York market and the flood of money in the United States. High quotations for Canadian funds in new York will be added inducement to the Acting Minister of Finance to float in New York at least part of the forthcoming Dominion loan.

HOSPITALS CONVENTION NOW IN SESSION HERE WITH LENGTHY AGENDA

More than fifty delegates representing about twenty-five of the sixty hospitals in the province, fifty of which are members of the association, are taking part in the annual convention of the B. C. Hospitals Association, which opened this morning at the Empress Hotel.

The organization was unfortunately without its president, Charles Graham of Cumberland, who expressed his regret that illness prevented his attendance, and George Haddon, first vice-president, of Vancouver, called the gathering to order.

In addition to the presidential address the meeting received a number of reports, and approved arrangements for its programme during the meeting. Very interesting details of the assistance given by the women's auxiliaries to their respective hospitals were received and the work of the organizations was approved.

A fine exhibit of hospital accessories occupied a portion of the convention room.

MAYOR'S WELCOME

Mayor Hayward, M.P.P., welcomed the delegates, expressing his personal hope that the time would come when public hospitals would be provided for out of government funds, both in the interests of the people and the hospitals, removing the frequent difficulties with regard to indigent payments, which often cropped up in negotiations with municipalities.

Dr. H. C. Wrinch, M.P.P., of Hazelton, responded, paying tribute to the attractions of Victoria as a convention city.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

The secretary, Miss E. Johns, R.N., Vancouver, presented her report, showing considerable activity by the executive. The report expressed its regret that with the exception of the remission of legacy duty, no action by the Government had been taken on the recommendations arising out of the Penticton meeting of last year.

The association had sustained interest in the organization through the year, had advised individual hospitals, and had drafted a tentative constitution and by-laws for the governing of a hospital, prepared at short notice.

Fifty of the sixty hospitals on the list of the secretary are in good standing with the association. Summerland has withdrawn, but is being urged to reconsider this action, it was stated.

An improved financial report was made by Mrs. M. E. Johnson, treasurer for a fourth term, who showed that the organization had a substantial balance in hand.

Charles Graham Sends Presidential Statement to B.C. Hospitals' Association

"For the past two years," said the presidential statement of Charles Graham of Cumberland, to the B.C. Hospitals Association in convention here to-day, "we have met the Government with requests and resolutions passed by the association. We have on each occasion been flatly turned down. Not only have we been turned down, but on each occasion we have had something taken away from us."

Explaining the above statement Mr. Graham went on: "Before appearing before the Government on the last occasion we had a conference with some of the executive of the Union of Municipalities. While the session was friendly enough we did not get very much sympathy. The Union of B.C. Municipalities is frankly not interested in anything that might mean the expenditure of money by them.

TOTAL OF DRUG ADDICTS SHRINKS IN THIS COUNTRY

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—Reports to the Health Department indicate that drug addicts, taking the country generally, are on the decline and that there has been a noticeable improvement in British Columbia. Stories that addicts are not infrequently found in the secondary schools of British Columbia are very much doubted. There may be an isolated case here and there, it is stated, not advanced enough to have been brought to the attention of parents or teachers, but such cases would be very unusual.

Photographs In Colors . . . . . Are Now Sent By Wire

New York, Aug. 28—The American Telephone and Telegraph Company last night announced that colored photographs had been transmitted from Chicago to New York. According to the announcement, a colored picture was placed in a sending machine in Chicago and was reproduced here in less than an hour in its original colors.

In the newest development of picture transmission the actual colors are not sent over the wire, but the colors are separated at the point of sending and reassembled when received, according to the announcement.

CABINET RECONSTRUCTION PUT THROUGH HERE TO-DAY; MINISTRY IS CUT DOWN

Hon. J. D. MacLean, New Minister of Finance Under Premier Oliver's Shuffle: John Hart Finally Gets Resignation Accepted; Hon. W. H. Sutherland Takes Over Railways.

Premier Oliver to-day completed and announced his cabinet re-organization, following on the resignation of the Hon. John Hart, as Minister of Finance.

The changes were all made to-day when the Premier at noon, accompanied by Mr. Hart, Hon. J. D. MacLean and Hon. W. H. Sutherland went to the office of Lieutenant-Governor Nichol.

Before the Lieutenant-Governor these changes in the personnel of the Cabinet were put through:

Hon. John Hart's resignation as Minister of Finance and Industries was accepted.

Hon. J. D. MacLean resigned as Minister of Railways and was sworn in as Minister of Finance and to hold the office of Minister of Education. It was announced that for a short time he would retain the office of Provincial Secretary as well.

Hon. W. H. Sutherland was sworn in as Minister of Railways in addition to his former portfolio of Minister of Public Works.

OTHER CHANGES PENDING

There may be some other changes in the Cabinet it was intimated, but nothing will be done until next month, as the Lieutenant-Governor is leaving to-day for Lake Windermere and will be absent for ten days or so.

Through the changes announced to-day the Cabinet is reduced from eight to seven members. It is referred to by friends of the Government as an economy or retrenchment Cabinet, saving administration cost.

Hon. John Hart, before the general election in June asked Premier Oliver to relieve him of office. He was asked by the Premier to stay until reconstruction of the Cabinet could be completed. This was Mr. Hart's last day in office. After the Lieutenant-Governor had accepted his resignation he returned to his own office with the feeling that he was a free man once more, out of politics.

He expressed his regrets at leaving the Premier and the other members of the Cabinet and wished them every success. Mr. Hart resigned because of the need of his attention to his firm of Gillespie, Hart and Todd, of which he will take charge in Vancouver. On preparing to move his home to Vancouver at the end of this week, he expressed his appreciation of the confidence placed in him by the people of Victoria, who elected him to office three times in succession without a defeat. He was sworn in as Minister of Finance in June, 1917, succeeding the late Ralph Smith.

Dr. MacLean, some months ago, asked to be relieved of some of his administrative responsibility as the burden of so many departments as he

BEER LAW COMING SOON FOR PROVINCE, VANCOUVER HEARS

Speculation Now as to What Form Law Will Take if Put Through

Mainland Report Says Clubs And Canteens May Dispose to Members

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—Announcement of the Government's beer policy is to be made within the next few days, The Sun says to-day.

According to those close to Premier Oliver he has stated in conversation with members of the Legislature and others, that he is prepared to declare for issuing beer licences in constituencies where the plebiscite on beer by the glass was carried.

The official announcement is expected to make this clear and also to deal with several other matters of policy in connection with the administration. For instance, the Act does not specify in what manner of places the beer may be sold, except that it must not be a bar.

The assumption based on Attorney-General Manson's speech when the Bill was under debate in the Legislature, is that public licences will be granted only to hotels of a certain standard. It is expected, however, that provision will be made for clubs and military conteens to dispense beer to their members, as has been done in Alberta and Quebec provinces, where the law is similar.

Mr. Manson also indicated that there might be two kinds of licences, dining-room licences and table licences. The former would apply to hotel dining-rooms and would restrict the sale to guests having meals.

The other kind of licence would be somewhat similar to the Quebec tavern licence where the beer is brought to tables, but where meals are not necessarily served.

B.C. FRUIT GROWERS ARE ORGANIZED TO FIGHT FOR EQUALIZED FREIGHT RATES

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—A special dispatch from Vernon to The Vancouver Sun to-day says:

"Interior fruit growers have decided to fight their own battles in the matter of freight and express rates. A new organization has been formed for that purpose with an executive representing the Salmon Arm, Vernon, Kelowna and Penticton districts at present and with arrangements in progress for representation from the other fruit growing districts.

"The organization is known as the British Columbia Freight Rate Adjustment Association. All of the leading fruit growers' associations as well as individuals have joined in the districts where the groundwork has been laid.

"G. G. McGeer, K.C., former Government counsel in the freight rate case, who recently toured the Okanagan Valley addressing meetings of growers on freight and express rate matters, has been retained to lay the British Columbia growers' point of view before the Railway Commission at its hearing of complaints made against the effect of restoration of the Crow's Nest Pass Agreement.

"The demand for equalization of express rates will also be made the subject of a separate application to the Railway Commission at an early date."

PREPARING CASE

Mr. McGeer, who has just returned to Vancouver, confirmed the foregoing dispatch this morning. He stated he had been instructed to prepare the fruit growers' argument for the Crow's Nest Agreement hearing and would leave for Ottawa about September 10 in order to be on hand when the hearing opens on September 17.

Impressive Scenes at Teacher's Funeral

Impressive scenes were witnessed yesterday afternoon at the funeral of the late T. W. Cornett, popular member of the staff of the Victoria College, who met his death at Shawnigan Lake on Sunday. The church was filled with a large congregation of friends and associates of the late teacher and an abundant collection of beautiful flowers paid tribute to his memory from a wide circle.

Rev. Dr. Sipprell conducted the service. The hymns sung were "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." Among the mourners were J. G. Lister and J. R. Pollock of Vancouver, both past presidents of the B.C. Teachers' Federation, and Harry Charlesworth, general secretary of that body, who represented the profession at the obsequies.

The pallbearers were H. S. Pringle, H. L. Smith, Geo. Robinson, W. E. Harper, S. J. Willis and Walter E. Staneland. The remains were laid at rest in Ross Bay Cemetery.

The funeral arrangements were in the hands of the Sands Funeral Co.

CONDUCTED LOBBY

"The municipalities conducted a very strong lobby during the past two years and got something from the Government each year, but everything they obtained was at the expense of the hospitals. First the Government gave them ten per cent. of the liquor profits originally intended for hospital purposes. Last year at the request of the municipalities the Government reinserted the word "indigent" into the Act, thus practically relieving the municipalities of all responsibility for that class of patient from the cities, which cannot, or will not, pay for hospital service.

UNIFORM ACCOUNTING

"At our last session in Victoria we had the pleasure of listening to an address of welcome by Hon. Dr. MacLean. A feature of his address was his reference to the accounting systems of the hospitals. He told us he was making inquiries and getting advice from hospitals and that the department would endeavor to get one system of accounting adopted, that would appeal to the ordinary hospital throughout the Province. After over four years of labor the department has finally evolved a system that only required a six-page booklet clearly to explain it. We can only hope that the system will prove to be what Dr. MacLean intended—a system that every person can understand."

VALUE OF BODY

Mr. Graham briefly referred to the conference programme, and then observed:

"With an organization such as this, provincial wide and affiliated with similar organizations national in their scope, the exchange of information as to operating conditions, and facts given frankly and in the proper spirit will help every hospital, whatever its size may be, and aid all hospital workers to know better their field and work."

Fitting allusion was made to the late J. T. Robinson of Kamloops, a member of the executive, who had died during the year.

Owing to Mr. Graham's illness the statement was read by the acting president, George Hoddon of Vancouver, and a motion of condolence was ordered to be telegraphed to Mr. Graham.

INQUEST TUESDAY

It is unlikely the inquest will be held before Tuesday, it is stated by Coroner Dr. W. D. Brydone-Jack. The Provincial Police have a heavy task before them to go through a mass of evidence, and the large number of reports which have come since the first inquest, and by the time they have the subpoenas delivered to the various witnesses there will be little left of this week.

Every piece of information gleaned by the private and police investigators since the death of Miss Smith which has any bearing on the case will be carefully investigated, those supplying such information being called to substantiate their alleged statements. The authorities are determined no stone shall be left unturned which may lead to the solution of the problem.

a solicitor of Armstrong, were motoring from Vernon to Armstrong, with Hopkins driving, when the car went off the road over a bank near Swan Lake. The speed of the car was slow or it would have gone to the bottom of a long slope. As it was, it turned over once or twice and ended with its wheels up, pinning Mr. Ladner on the rails of a fence and killing him almost instantly.

Mr. Ely and the driver, Hopkins, escaped with cuts and bruises.

BELIEVES WHEEL BROKE

Hopkins is alleged to have stated he believed a wheel broke, causing the car to swerve from the road.

Mr. Ladner was a second cousin of Leon J. Ladner, M.P. for South Vancouver. He was expected to be the Conservative candidate in the forthcoming Federal by-election in Yale.

Mrs. Cumberland- Wilcox entertained on Wednesday afternoon at her home on Cook Street, with two tables of mah jong, in honor of her daughter Tris. Among those present were: Misses Violet Punnet, Audrey Tooley, Isabel Hedley, Janet Gourlay-Lang, Joan Spurgin, Marjorie Judd, Nora Keay, and Marjorie Fordyse of Duncan.

HOSPITAL EXPERT OUTLINES TO ROTARY ASPECTS OF WORK

Miss Johns Appeals For More Generous Financing by Government

Victoria Rotarians to-day were hosts at a joint luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce, to the delegates to the British Columbia Hospitals Association.

George Haddow, of Vancouver, first vice-president of the Hospitals Association, said the organization includes sixty hospitals. He outlined the aims of the association, and invited Rotarians to attend the sessions of the convention.

Miss Ethel Johns of Vancouver dealt with aspects of hospital work, ranging from finance to discipline and the functions of hospitals.

"Dr. Banting made trouble for hospitals when he discovered insulin; yet, do the hospitals hesitate a moment in assuming that great labor?" she asked.

SEEK PUBLIC OPINION

"If such clubs as yours really understood our work, how long do you think it would take to end this unseemly wrangling between the Government and the hospitals over monetary matters? I think about five minues would see the work put on the proper financial basis.

"I sometimes wonder if the people realize what goes on in some of these little hospitals which carry, in the aggregate, such a share of the load.

A VERBAL TOUR

"Go and see what is doing in one of them. In the board room is a meeting: President, treasurer and secretary look unhappy, money is needed, someone signs a note. Is that business?"

Miss John took her hearers on a tour of the operating room, to the wards, all working without adequate resources, doing weighty tasks as best they may, lacking finances which she urged should be more freely available. Her conclusion was greeted with great applause.

J. E. Farnsworth of Dallas, Texas, spoken for five minutes on Rotary in Texas. He declared the activities of the clubs in that state to be an important factor in the recent business advancement of his State.

He took occasion to praise Victoria. "I have traveled a great deal, from Panama to Canada, and I can say in all sincerity that I have never seen a more beautiful country than this island, or a finer city than Victoria. You have everything here to delight those visiting you. Our people in Texas do not know what you have to offer, but they will know.

We are going back to tell about it; they think of you so far north, as frosty and a chilly land; they cannot immagine the lovely climate you have. I have sent word to my wife in Southern California to come up here and join me.

CALL FOR MEN FOR HARVEST FIELD WORK

The first open order for men for work in the prairie harvest fields—men who have not received letters from farmers—was received to-day at the Provincial Government Employment Bureau in Victoria. The bureau can ship fifty men to Moose Jaw Sunday and, commencing Sunday, ten men a day to Lethbridge until notified from the latter city that there are enough men on hand. Other orders for harvest workers are expected. The bureau understands that the cheap transportation rate to harvest workers has been extended.

FOUND DROWNED IS JURY VERDICT

Late John Gleeson Was Seen Alive at 10 o'Clock Night Before Body Found

Was Then in Good Spirits, And Said He Was on His Way Home

Found drowned, was the verdict of the jury sitting at an inquest this morning on the remains of the late John Gleeson, whose body was taken from the water at Armstrong's landing, foot of Kingston Street, at 8 a.m. on Tuesday morning. Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart presided, the inquest being held at the Sands Funeral premises, under the city police.

Dr. John H. Moore, who performed the autopsy, classed death as due to drowning. The lungs were waterlogged, he said, but no marks of violence visible.

Frederick A. Winterburn and Albert Edwards told of seeing the body in the water ten yards west of an old wharf now used as a lumber yard, and apparently open to the public by means of a road from the main thoroughfare. The body was found in three feet of water, the tide out, and the feet touching on bottom.

Hamilton Smith stated he spoke to Mr. Gleeson at 10 p.m. on Monday night, at the Causeway and Belleville Street. Mr. Gleeson was in good spirits, and said he was then on his way home. At 4 o'clock on the same afternoon witness met Mr. Gleeson at the former's office, and he had then appeared in normal health and his usual good humor.

C. W. Bradshaw identified the remains. He had known Mr. Gleeson for twenty years.

The jury brought in an open verdict of found drowned after momentary deliberation. Messrs. George Hibbard, foreman; Bertram W. Simms, William H. Jones, C. J. McDowell, Herbert Sebeiston, and J. H. Temple formed the panel.

HARVESTER KILLED

Wilcox, Sask., Aug. 28.—Albert Gray, a harvester, aged thirty-five, from Sherbrooke, Que., was instantly killed one mile north of here yesterday afternoon when a truck driven by Henry Baker overturned near a culvert.

CABINET CHANGES BEING DISCUSSED

Possible Reconstruction of of Federal Ministry Subject of Speculation

Ottawa, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press)—Cabinet reconstruction, which has been a subject of intermittent discussion in political circles for some time past, is again to the fore. One of those who have made remarks in public on the subject is Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader. He expressed the opinion this week that the Government can not long survive the loss of three of its most brilliant Ministers. The three members of the Government named by Mr. Meighen are Sir Lomer Gouin, Hon. Charles Murphy and Right Hon. W. S. Fielding, the latter two still being members of the Government.

It is generally accepted here that Cabinet reconstruction will come before long. It is unlikely that Hon. J. A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance and Minister of Immigration, will continue to administer two departments, one of which is considered particularly heavy. He will probably relinquish the Department of Immigration, retaining that of Finance.

PRESIDENT OF COUNCIL

But in order that he may become Minister of that department, Mr. Fielding must resign or be provided with another position. It has been suggested that the post of President oof the Privy Council, now filled by the Premier, be given to Mr. Fielding. In this way the veteran Minister would be provided with a position, the dutiees of which would not be heavy, whereby he could continue to attend cabinet meetings and advise on important matters.

The name of H. B. McGiverin, senior member for Ottawa, is mentioned as a probable selection for the post of Minister without portfolio vacated by Hon. T. A. Low, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

LOEB AND LEOPOLD SENTENCE SEPT. 10

The judge then read a prepared statement and at its conclusion announced he would give his decision September 10, "unless illness prevents."

POWER OF MONEY

The court did not state specifically what portions of Mr. Crowe's remarks aroused his ire. It was recalled, however, that the state attorney had referred to possible outbreaks if the death penalty were not imposed and had emphasized the possible power of money in the courts and the wealth of the defendants.

In conclusion, Judge Caverly said: "We have been criticized about the delays of justice. The court has been criticized because after a plea of guilty he permitted evidence to be heard, and has been criticized because of the length of time it takes for an execution after the court passes judgment.

ONE OF SPEEDIEST

"Permit me to say with reference to the delays of justice, that this trial is one of the speediest trials of a criminal case ever heard in Cook County in which the state has asked the death penalty.

"And this could not have been done if it had not been for the able manner in which the state attorney of this county investigated and prepared his case and was ready to go to trial when called.

"The defence are to be commended because they made no attempt to delay the trial."

YESTERDAY'S SESSION

During his address to the judge yesterday afternoon State Attorney Robert E. Crowe absolved both hereditary and environment from the blame for the death of Bobby Franks. He read from the celebrated report concerning Loeb:

"After the most extensive investigation we find nothing in his family history or in his training which contributed to this crime."

And later, concerning Leopold, he read from the same report:

"There is nothing in the examination to indicate that his family, either by commission or ommission, is responsible for his act."

QUESTION OF EMOTIONS

Then he turned to emotions.

"Your Honor has been told these criminals have no emotions. You have been told they are two mad boys wandering about in a childish wilderness of phantasy.

"I read from the report, Loeb is telling of his thoughts anent the possibility of being caught.

"'I had considered the possibility of not being caught. I was certain my father, a sick man, could not stand the shock.'

"Is that feeling or emotion, Your Honor?"

"Again Loeb tells that in the death car with Leopold after life had been beaten out of the victim:

"'I had a hard time quieting my companion. It took me five minutes to quiet him.'"

UNREVEALED EPISODES

Mr. Crowe also found in the report references to "A, B, C and D," four unrevealed episodes in Loeb's life. These, he contended, were known to Leopold and used by the latter as blackmail to keep Loeb in subjection.

"They dispose of the king-slave theory of the defence," he said.

Mr. Crowe said he would prove these were "four major crimes" committed by Loeb, but he did not reach that stage in his argument before adjournment in the afternoon.

"A, B, C, D—and the murder of Bobby Franks is E," he thundered to the court.

LOEB GAMBLED

"The letters concerning Loeb's gambling for high stakes were introduced early in the proceedings. They went into the record on motion of the state as part of the batch of documents dealing with details on the case.

"That letter isn't in the record," said Benjamin Bachrach when Mr. Crowe started reading the missive in which Allan Loeb admonished his brother that he was "going too high" in his gambling.

"Oh, yes it is," said the state attorney, and handed it to the defence attorneys.

Allan Loeb flushed slightly at this episode, but it did not seem to bother Richard. The latter even said to Milton Smith, an assistant state attorney, as they passed each other when court adjourned, that the letter from Allan would explain where he had obtained all the money he had deposited in two bank accounts.

$250 A MONTH

Mr. Crowe read these bank records immediately after calling the court's attention to the letters. They showed deposits of from $50 to $750 each, numbering a score or more, and coming on dates when Loeb's monthly allowance of $250 was not due from his father.

Again he termed the works of the defence "artificial" and charged they had been constructed after Clarence Darrow and Benjamin and Walter Bachrach had faced the facts in the crime and found them unassailable.

PRINCE OF WALES IN CANADA SEPT. 15

of the country," said Major Solbert, "but they are not true. He is going from Long Island to Canada."

TO BE NO FORMALITY

Major Solbert declared emphatically that the visit would be entirely free from formality. While the various entertainments planned for the Prince would be carried out if possible, nothing was definite and the Prince would be at entire liberty to do as he wished during his visit on Long Island.

The Prince, during his stay in the James A. Burden home at Syosset, will occupy the suite of Mrs. Burden, his absent hostess. He will have a living room, dressing room, bedroom and bath.

SIXTEEN SERVANTS

Sidney Janaway, the six-foot-three English butler, has seen service with British nobility. There are fifteen other servants. George Robinson, assistant to Janaway, and James Mackie, the chauffeur, who will pilot the Prince's car, are both medal men in the British service. There is a French chef.

PRINCE AROSE EARLY

On Board the Ss. Berengaria, Aug. 28—The Prince of Wales was up early to-day, working out strenuously in the ship's well equipped gymnasium and showing he had not been fatigued by his long round of activity yesterday, which began with participation in various athletic competitions, continued with several appearances on the dance floor and ended with a plunge in the swimming pool.

Yesterday evening found the Prince in particularly gay spirits. He attended a concert and joined heartily in the singing of Ivor Novello's song, conducted by the actor's mother, Clara Novello Davis, "The Land That Might Have Been."

The Prince was enthusiastic over the singing of Grace Larue, the actress, and asked her to sing "The Mountain of Song."

ENJOYED A SWIM

After the dancing and concert the Prince went for a swim, but found the pool crowded with passengers. He dived and swam for a quarter of an hour before he was recognized, and then he darted away.

According to the instructor at the pool, the Prince tries to time his swims so he will not be overwhelmed by the admiring attentions of the young lady passengers. Whenever he goes to the pool, according to the instructor, he always asks when the ladies are due to arrive and as soon as they come he is off to his quarters. The young ladies, undeterred by the retiring attitude of their royal fellow passenger, stand in prominent positions around the pool when they learn he is approaching, but thus far the Prince has had the better of the amusing game of hide and seek.

WALKS ALONE

Despite the demands which his athletic and social activities have made on his time, the Prince has found quarter hours now and then to wander off by himself. One meets him in unexpected places, walking briskly with his hands in his trouser pockets, whistling or singing, or sometimes preoccupied with his own thoughts.

has been carrying was too onerous. He had been in charge of the Railway Department since October 17, 1922, as well as occupying the office of president of the Pacific Great Eastern Railways, in addition to his portfolios of Education and Provincial Secretary, which latter he has administered since the formation of the Brewster Government in 1916.

RADICAL CHANGES

As the new Minister of Finance, Dr MacLean said this afternoon that he had no plans for radical changes in the immediate future.

"As I understand public opinion, however," he said, "I believe that many of our people are anxious for an economical administration of public affairs consistent with a reasonable public service.

"Will there be any changes in taxation?" he was asked. "Taxation, its economical and prompt collection, and its equitable distribution is always a live topic," he replied.

"Will you permanently continue to administer the Departments of Education and Provincial Secretary?" he was also asked.

"That is a question for the Premier to decide," he replied.

Dr. MacLean is the member in the House for Yale.

Dr. Sutherland is from Revelstoke. He was taken into the Cabinet on January 28, 1922, to succeed the Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, wha was taken into the Cabinet of Premier King at Ottawa.

BEER LAW COMING SOON FOR PROVINCE, VANCOUVER HEARS

Another point which may be dealt with in the Government's statement of policy is whether towns which voted for beer in constituencies where the total vote was adverse, shall be granted licences.

The act makes this possible, and it is for the Government to decide. While the first official statement is expected to be fairly general in its terms, it is expected that it will indicate the intention of the Government to get the act into force promptly.

ONTARIO INQUIRY TO IMPROVE FARMING

Problems Discussed by Farmers, Trade Leaders And Manufacturers

Toronto, Aug. 28.—Representatives of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, boards of trade and other interests, including farmers, appeared yesterday before the Agricultural Inquiry Committee of the Ontario Legislature, which is endeavoring to discover the impediments resting on the farming industry in this province, and all gave statements of their views and suggested remedial measures.

There was a wide diversity of causes suggested for the present neglect of Ontario farms. Two representatives of the Manufacturers' Association, Colonel A. F. Hatch, president, and J. M. McIntosh, secretary, said recent reductions in the tariff were the chief causes, while J. J. Morrison, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, stressed mainly the lack of co-operation in marketing, the burden of taxation, "excessive salaries" paid men in high places ,the demands of labor unions for higher wages and shorter hours and an unsatisfactory class of immigrants.

Senator Robertson pointed to the heavy freight rates as a burden on the farmers, and Lieut.-Colonel Brown of London, Ont., expressed the view that a broader social life in the rural communities would help to check the exodus from the farms and aid the farming industry generally.

REPORT DESCRIBED AS KITE-FLYING

Melbourne Paper Disposes of Rumor Ronaldshay to be Australian Governor

Melbourne, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press Cable)—A report that the Earl of Ronaldshay, Governor of Bengal from 1917 to 1922, may be appointed to succeed Lord Forster as Governor-General of Australia is characterized by a Melbourne newspaper as "pure kite-flying."

Lord Forster's term as Governor-General will not expire until October, 1925, and there seems to be nothing to prevent his remaining in the position considerably longer if he so desires.

When the time comes for the appointment of a successor to Lord Forster, it is believed the Commonwealth Government will insist on being consulted before the next Governor-General is named.

FOUR UNIVERSITY APPOINTMENTS MADE

Dr. C. A. H. Wright and Others Join Faculty at Point Grey

Vancouver, Aug. 28—Four appointments were made by the board of governors of the University of British Columbia at a meeting held last night. Of these appointments, three are for the 1924-25 session, while the remaining one is for the Fall term.

Charles A. H. Write, B.A., B.Sc., M.Sc., University of British Columbia, Ph.D., McGill, was appointed lecturer in chemistry for the Fall term. On completing his Ph.D. degree at McGill, Dr. Wright was granted the Ramsay Memorial Scholarship and spent a year at the University of London.

The three appointments for the 1924-25 session were: A. Lighthall, B.Sc., McGill, as instructor in Engineering; F. A. Wilkins, B.A.Sc., McGill, as instructor in civil engineering; and Miss Sallee Murphy, B.A., University of British Columbia, M.A., Toronto, as assistant in English.

ALBERTA LIBERALS TO CHOOSE LEADER

J. R. Boyle Appointed Judge; Mitchell and Davidson Mentioned

Calgary, Aug. 28.—Following the elevation of J. R. Boyle to the Supreme Court of Alberta only two names have been mentioned with any frequency in connection with the leadership of the Liberal Party in Alberta. They are C. R. Mitchell, former Provincial Treasurer, member for Bow Valley, and W. M. Davidson, editor of The Calgary Albertan and independent member for Calgary.

Mr. Mitchell is said to have the support of Hon. Charles Stewart, Federal Minister of the Interior, and the right wing of the Liberal Party.

Mr. Davidson now sits on the cross benches, although for some time he was in the Liberal ranks. He won a seat in a recent by-election, defeating a combination of the Liberals and Conservatives. It is declared he has the support of what are called the Progressives in the party and, it is said, of a number of Liberal members of the Legislature. He has given no indication he is a candidate for the position.

George Webster, Mayor of Calgary, is also mentioned, but at present he is not a member of the House.

The Liberals will probably hold a convention soon and appoint a leader, with a convention to follow the coming session of the Legislature.

PRINCE OF WALES SHARED IN SPORTS

Took Part in Exercises on Berengaria and Later Attended Dance

Prince Expected to Visit Ottawa on Way Home From Alberta

On board Ss. Berengaria, Aug. 28.—Notwithstanding a strenuous dash of sport in which he emerged from three events on the losing end, the Prince of Wales was among the persistent dancers aboard the Berengaria last evening. He also attended the ship's concert, which was well patronized.

After losing in the tug of war and in the potato race, the Prince took part in the pillow fighting, his opponent being L. E. Bull, a Harvard student. They exchanged spirited blows amid great hilarity and it looked for a time as though the Prince would emerge the winner, but Bull finally put him out. The Prince accepted his defeat smilingly, as he did in the other events.

Lord Louis Mountbatten also fell in the pillow fighting.

PRESENTS DECORATION

This morning the Prince held an investure, presenting First Officer Walter H. Poole with a decoration for his long service in the British Naval Reserve.

Lord and Lady Mountbatten plan to accompany the Prince on his visit to Long Island, where he is looking forward eagerly to the international polo matches.

VISIT TO OTTAWA

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—The official visit of the Prince of Wales to Ottawa will not be made until October, if present plans are carried out.

Inquiries at various official sources elicited no information as to the Prince's plans, but it is generally understood he intends to go straight from Montreal to Toronto on the westward journey, and to visit the seat of government on his return journey in October. The official itinerary is not available here, but it is supposed his visits in the United States, including his official call in Washington, will be made before he begins at New London, Conn., on September 14 his journey through Canada to his ranch in Alberta.

FOUND OPTIMISM IN WESTERN CANADA

Sir Henry Thornton Gives Interview on His Return to Montreal

Montreal, Aug. 28.—That the tide of immigration was turning toward Canada and that the time was coming when the people of the United States would have to look to this country for their daily sustenance were opinions expressed by Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, in an interview here on his return from his tour of inspection of the western lines of the railroad.

Sir Henry found optimism in the West. He estimated a wheat crop of at least 300,000,000 bushels this year. He also referred to the ever increasing tendency toward mixed farming on the prairies.

He said a grain elevator at Prince Rupert would be a necessity before long.

MANITOBA WHEAT IS BEING REAPED

Weather During Past Few Days Has Been Ideal For Ripening

Winnipeg, Aug. 28.—Ideal ripening weather during the last few days throughout Manitoba has greatly advanced the crops, and farmers have commenced cutting in several districts. In the Brandon district wheat cutting is now general and, according to reports, Summer fallow fields will yield anywhere from twenty-two to thirty bushels to the acre, while that on Fall or Spring ploughing may probably go under twenty bushels.

With rye cutting nearly completed in this district, it is expected the yield will be between twelve and fifteen bushels an acre.

Barley is reported to be in excellent condition around Douglas, Man.

THE HOSPITALS' ASSOCIATION

INSTITUTIONS which wish to influence public opinion have to be organized, and the British Columbia Hospitals Association, whose delegates Victoria welcomes to-day, have a definite mission in this respect. In a few brief years the Association has taken its place beside the long established Union of B.C. Municipalities, and the School Trustees Association of B.C. as the organ of hospital opinion in this Province.

Its mission is not only educational and social, educational to inform its country members of the progress made in the town hospitals, social to give an opportunity for its members to meet and discuss common objectives with the advantage of varied experience, but to create a concentrated public opinion. That attitude of mind which compels not only good medical and nursing service in the hospitals, but also the introduction of modern equipment, is receiving daily a stimulus from the standardization policy adopted by the American College of Surgeons. Under that policy the hospital has not only to get its patients well, but has to keep fit itself. Victoria hospitals have considerably improved, in order to qualify in the desired category, and are proud to have two hospitals in that class. The people of Victoria have been very much interested in the thorough, if expensive, experiment being carried out by the directors of its Jubilee Hospital of building a structure of ample proportions after consultation with all experts, and they will welcome the study which the delegates are to give to this building to-morrow.

With the cost of hospital service mounting, like every other form of community service, the municipalities are restive under the compulsory powers of the law governing indigents. In view of the forthcoming discussion again on this subject at Penticton next week by the Union of B.C. Municipalities, the convention there is certain to record itself as determined to stand for the concessions of the last two years, rather than revert to a system under which the per capita allowance for indigents is insufficient to maintain them, throwing on the generous public an added burden. Until state control of hospital service comes, with its inherent increase in cost to the taxpayer, the relations between the state-recognized hospitals and the public governing bodies will continue to be a source of some friction, and such bodies as the Hospitals Association can do much to mitigate unpleasant discord when the bills come to be paid.

MR. POOLEY'S PROPHESY

ACCORDING to the leader of the Conservative Party in British Columbia there will be a provincial general election early next year. On that occasion the same authority predicts the complete rout of the Oliver Government. He bases his confident prophecy on his party's conviction that he and his colleagues will be able to prove to the electorate that faulty methods were employed in the taking of the absentee vote. Mr. Pooley also seems to consider that the present Administration should not dream of holding office because the Liberal candidates did not poll a majority of votes at the recent election.

The Conservative leader announced to the general public within a couple of hours of his elevation to the position from which his party successfully froze Mr. Bowser that "it was the unanimous opinion of the members"—those present at the Vancouver Convention—"that there has been corruption and manipulation of ballots in the recent election." It was the firm conviction that wrongdoing had taken place which encouraged him to declare that "the question becomes a moral one as to whether the wishes of the people are to be flouted."

By reason of his experience as a member of the Legislature for many years, none the less on account of his undisputed knowledge of parliamentary practice, Mr. Pooley, as the leader of a great party, ought to realize that if he has serious charges to make against the Government, or any member of the Government, he should make them on his responsibility as a member of the Legislature and either justify them, or resign his seat if he should fail. Innuendo in or outside the House is not convincing. He must make his charge in the proper way if he desires to show that he is politically courageous.

Mr. Pooley has been selected to lead his party in the Legislature. He has enjoyed the title of Opposition Leader for nearly three weeks. In the interval an election has been fought in an acknowledged Conservative stronghold. Tories and Provincials joined forces and married Labor in a combined effort to defeat Mr. Oliver. These tactics failed utterly. The Premier romped home. Does Mr. Pooley really mean to insult the intelligence of the good people of Nelson by telling them that the exercise of their judgment last Saturday will be love's labor lost because he will see to it that a general election early next year utterly routs the Liberal Government?

WAITING ON GERMANY

AFTER many lively interchanges between the Herriot and Poincare groups the French Parliament has approved the London agreement on the Dawes plan. The German Reichstag will probably vote on the proposal some time to-night or to-morrow. Meanwhile a little blood letting has relieved the tedium of discussion of the necessary bills.

France has taken the prudent course. It is not the one which appeals to the Poincarists or militant element generally. In their opinion eighteen months in the Ruhr has far from furnished the fruits which they consider national self-respect demands. Substituting the requirements of modern conditions for the ancient manner of demonstrating victory very naturally goes down hard with them. But even the disappointed wings of the Chamber and Senate admitted by their actions, reluctant as they may have appeared and no doubt were, that the time had arrived for a trial of broader statesmanship. Many of the doubters and nearly all of those who were frankly opposed to the Herriot policy refrained from voting and thus insured for the agreement a safe passage.

France has tasted the fruits of victory in the old spectacular sense. She has held the industrial windpipe of her ancient foe for more than eighteen months and for a little longer the presence of the poilu on German soil will continue to please a very human element in the republic. But the operation of the Dawes plan will undoubtedly demonstrate the effectiveness of practical methods in contrast with a policy which could only be successful if it had been launched with the same spirit of co-operation which existed in the war years—and at a date not so far removed from the day in 1918 on which the armistice was signed.

Premier Herriot is entitled to all the credit he cares to take out of the uncertain political atmosphere of his native country. He brought to bear on one of the most important questions which France has had to face in recent days that same business capacity which has served him well in the industrial field. The former Mayor of Lyons, in fact, has made a great name for himself.

GROWING EXPORT TRADE

STATISTICS issued from Ottawa yesterday emphasize a growing favorable balance in the trade between this country and the United States. During the twelve months ending on July 31 last this Dominion imported from her neighbor goods to the value of $569,899,000—a decrease of $30,000,000 compared with the preceding year. Exports from Canada to the United States totalled $422,810,000, showing an increase over the preceding twelve months of approximately $20,000,000. These figures show that the difference between imports and exports has been reduced from $193,265,000 to $143,089,000 in spite of the operation of the higher tariff during the period which has just ended.

Taken in conjunction with the general increase of the export trade of this country the last year's trading with the United States automatically adds to the interest which Canada is manifesting in the forthcoming presidential election. If it is possible for the Dominion to sell more goods to her neighbor while the Fordney-McCumber tariff is in operation, a handicap upon Canadian export trade imposed by the present Washington Administration, it should look for a larger business if the Democrats, or low tariff forces, should replace the Coolidge Government. In any case the official return referred to is highly encouraging and holds bright prospects.

Mr. Henry Ford says that Montreal lacks industry and future. He must have heard some of the whispers of death which emanate from time to time from the eastern metropolis.

The Prince of Wales won the booby prize at the masquerade dance held on the Berengaria the other night. He was dressed as an apache. It will now be in order for the young men of New York society to adopt apache costumes.

Mr. George Buchanan, the Clydeside, M.P. who came in contact with the clenched right fist of Mr. L. S. Amery in the British House of Commons a few months ago, has taken unto himself a wife. He was apparently in need of a permanent sparring partner.

If any great transcontinental transportation system wants to acquire the Pacific Great Eastern Railway it should be the main object in the life of the Oliver Government to dispose of it if terms satisfactory to both negotiating parties can be agreed upon. Otherwise this piece of public property will continue to remain a sinkhole for much of the good money of the Province for some considerable time to come.

NEITHER EAST NOR WEST

From The Ottawa Journal

The statement is made that the successor to Mr. Carvell on the Railway Commission must come from the Maritime Provinces. Why the Maritime Provinces, or why any particular Province? Aren't we ever going to get over the idea in this country that men must be appointed to high posts because they represent some particular section or some particular class, or race, or creed, in the community? What hope can there be for national unity when the most important acts of our Governments are supposed to emphasize sectional divisions and differences?

Dr. Frank Crane on "Dogs"

(Copyright)

I WAS sitting the other day at an outdoor restaurant and noticed a man near me who was showing his little dog to some children. Presently the dog darted out into the street where it was straightway run over by an automobile and killed. The man was in great distress. He picked up the remains of the animal, wrapped it in paper and carried it away. What had become of the dog? Its life had been suddenly extinguished. Is there a dog Heaven, or other-world of any kind?

John Wesley used to think that the animals had a future life and it is certain that some savage tribes were convinced that their favorite dog would follow them to the Happy Hunting Grounds; but however we may settle this theological question, the fact remains that the dog, of all the animals upon earth, comes nearest to man.

That is to say, the dog, as Maeterlinck says, is the only animal that really loves a man. It is the only point of animal creation that seems to regard the human being affectionately.

There is a faithfulness, a loyalty and love, on the part of the dog that we do not find in any other animal. With this is combined an animality that is just as open and frank. Dogs will fight each other and they do not like cats but the dog is the friend and companion of man.

However much we maye reason out the harm that is done by dogs, the diseases they give us and the danger of being bitten by them, all this logic is swept away when our canine looks up at us with his large and expressive eyes and we behold his tail wagging in good fellowship.

As far as that is concerned the dog is the only animal that wags his tail as an expression of joy. The horse may wag his tail to keep off the flies, and the members of the cat family wag their tails when they are hungry or contemplate attack, but with a dog, tail-wagging is an expression of geniality of spirit.

The dog's affection for man is pure and undefiled. It makes no difference to him whether his man friend be a millionaire or pauper. He cares nothing for what we possess so that we possess enough to give him food once in a while.

The man is to him what their gods are to the heathen. He looks up to the man as a superior being and is happy only in his presence.

There are some who regard the dog as a coward, who loves man only because he cringes before him but those who are familiar with dogs feel that this is not true but rather that their affection is sincere and their courage undoubted.

The Story of the Jesuits

IN 1632 Charles I. of England handed back to Louis XIII. of France the outpost of Quebec together with the valley of the St. Lawrence which his bold and enterprising subject Sir David Kirke, with his brothers, had captured from the destitute, starving Champlain in 1629. With joy the French hastened to resume possession. In the first ship came two Jesuit fathers, Paul Le Jeune, the Superior of the Jesuit mission, and Father Anne de Noue. They were not the first Jesuits in Canada, for there had been members of the order at work for four years before Sir David Kirke's conquest. The latter had broken up the mission and transported the workers to France. Now, however, the venture of faith and zeal was being reorganized, and pushed forward as never before.

About two miles from the little settlement huddled at the foot of the Rock of Quebec lay, on the banks of the St. Charles River, the mission house of the Jesuits; Notre Dame des Anges, which they had been forced by the English to abandon, and which had been plundered and half wrecked during their absence. It was quickly restored for habitation, and here, on August 28, 1632, Father Le Jeune sat writing the first of the Jesuit Relations, a report to his Superior in France.

The Jesuit Relations are among the most valuable documents on early Canadian history. They were, however, not composed as an historical record nor with the annalist's purpose, but as propaganda. It had been the custom for some time for the intrepid Jesuit missionaries to write from afar a tale of their spiritual experiences in heathen lands, for the edification and inspiration of the faithful at home in France. St. Francois Xavier had instructed his missionaries to send to headquarters all news calculated to witness to the zeal of the Society of Jesus and to show the success vouchsafed by Heaven to its efforts. At the same time he had cautioned them "Nothing is to appear which might give reasonable occasion of offence to anyone; nothing shall be included except that which shall immediately inspire the reader with thoughts of God, His glory and the advancement of His service." Year by year the volumes from Canada were published in Paris and sold on the bookstalls there until there numbered about forty of them, from 1632 to 1672. In 1673 the Society of Jesus ceased its publications upon an order from Pope Clement X., for there had been much scandal caused in Europe by the practice of the Jesuit missionaries in China of countenancing certain Chinese customs and beliefs which they considered innocent and not contrary to the vital doctrines of Christianity. Though such had been the practice of the earliest Christians in spreading the faith, it seemed monstrous to the more uncompromising zealots of the great revival in the Roman Catholic communion in the seventeenth century, and a furious controversy raged. So the fuel was cut off, and, sadly enough, just in time to prevent the publication of the report of that saintly missionary explorer of the West and the Mississippi, Father Marquette.

THE Jesuit Relations, precious sidelight as they are, do not form the most accurate source of information on Canadian History. They were never intended as annals, but as arguments in favor of missionary endeavor in general and of that of the Society of Jesus in particular. The French historian, Rochemonteix, chronicler of Jesuit courage and achievement in Canada, remarks, "The Relations, as published, do not give an altogether true portrait of the features of New France. They show only the fairest and most consolatory side of social conditions. The other side is intentionally thrown into the shade, or, to speak more correctly, passed over in silence. Father Le Jeune himself explains to his readers in his volume of 1635 that he does not pretend to set down all the events in Canada but only such as concern the spread of the faith and redound to the glory of God.

The Jesuits, at their headquarters beside the St. Charles, standing to-day as the General Hospital at Quebec, later compiled another record, the Jesuit Journal. There were three volumes, of which only the first is known now to exist, begun in 1645 and ended in 1775. This is an intimate, continuous chronicle of contemporary events, chiefly, of course, of ecclesiastical life, but with a wealth of allusion to civil and social life in the struggling colony. Never intended for publication there is no self-consciousness in the writing and hence no distortion such as mars the Relations for historical purposes.

500 POLE OPERATIONS IN THE PROVINCE

THIS BRANCH OF FOREST INDUSTRIES INCREASES OUTPUT SIXFOLD IN SEVEN YEARS

Operations Greatly Assist Settler Sub-Contractors in Clearing Their Land

THE British Columbia pole business is rapidly developing into great importance.

In the Vancouver forestry district alone there are over 200 operators employing 850 men and considerable equipment in getting out red cedar poles and in the whole province it is estimated that not less than 500 concerns, large and small, employ over 2,000 men in this class of work. In the year 1923, over 16,000,000 feet of poles were produced in British Columbia of an estimated value of $1,600,000 F.O.B. rail. This is no less than six times the quantity that was taken out of the B.C. woods in 1916.

Settler Sub-Contractors

Pole cutting is largely done by settler sub-contractors who derive great benefit from this occupation, the revenue they receive greatly assisting them in clearing their property of timber that would otherwise be wasted, thus furnishing another example of the ubiquity of the B.C. forest industries.

There is no more suitable wood for telegraph and telephone poles than B.C. red cedar and buyers all over the world are well aware of this fact.

British Columbia possesses three-fifths of the world's supply of red cedar and given fair conditions its pole industry has a great future ahead.

R. H. POOLEY AGAIN PREDICTS ELECTION

'Twill be Within Year, He Now Says; Gets Picnic Resolution of Support

R. H. Pooley, new Conservative House leader, who last Sunday in Nelson predicted a general election in British Columbia in two months, yesterday predicted another general Provincial election some time next year. His prediction was made at the Conservative picnic at Willows Beach.

He said that when the election comes the Conservatives will go to the polls in "a solid, well-organized force" and would then utterly rout the Oliver Government. Exposure of faulty methods in the last general election in connection with the absentee vote would be the reason for the new election, Mr. Pooley said.

Mr. Pooley again denied the report and the editorial page article of censure on him in The Vancouver Daily Province that he had been saying nasty personal things about Premier Oliver and had thus been guilty of a breach of bad taste and ungentlemanly conduct in his very first campaign as leader.

C. H. Dickie, M.P. for Nanaimo, declared that with a Conservative Government ruling there always existed stability, progress and prosperity.

A resolution pledging the support of Victoria, Esquimalt and Saanich Conservativees to Mr. Pooley as leader, moved by Mayor Hayward, M.P.P., and seconded by Despart Twigg, M.P.P., was carried unanimously and with cheers for Mr. Pooley.

Gus Lyons was chairman, and with him on the platform were: C. H. Dickie, of Duncan, Federal member for Nanaimo; Col. C. Peck, V.C., M.P.P., the Islands; C. F. Davie, M.P.P., Cowichan-Newcastle; Joshua Hinchliffe, M.P.P.; Victoria; Mayor Reg. Hayward, M.P.P., Victoria; Despard Twigg, M.P.P.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Pebble Pudding

Copyright, 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

By Howard R. Garis

"Nurse Jane, if you will be so kind, should anyone ask where I am going, do not tell them"

Uncle Wiggily said this to his muskrat lady housekeeper one day as he started to hop away from the driftwood bungalow where he was spending his vacation at the seashore.

"How can I tell them where you are going, when I do not know myself?" asked Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "I suppose you are going off adventuring, but where you go, and what you do, is more than I know—until you come back."

"No, I am not going adventuring," said Uncle Wiggily with a smile. "I am just going down the beach a little way, where I can sit down on the sand and think."

"What are you going to think about?" asked Nurse Jane.

"There is going to be a party at the Board Walk Bungalow this evening," said the rabbit gentleman. "I am supposed to tell a bedtime story for the children. I am going down on the beach to think up a good story for them, and I don't want to be bothered."

"All right," laughed nurse Jane, "I won't tell them where you are. Hop along, Wiggy!"

So Uncle Wiggily hopped along, and soon he was all alone by himself far down the beach where there were many rocks, pebbles and strands of seaweed tossed up by the waves.

"This will be a good place to think," said the bunny rabbit.

Down he sat himself on some soft sand. All kinds of stories ran through his head. He wanted a jolly, clever one to tell for the animal children at the party that evening. As he sat there, thinking, Uncle Wiggily picked up bits of seaweed, and laid them on the beach. Then he picked up white, round pebbles, about the size of raisins and stuck them in the bunch of seaweed.

"It looks just like one of Nurse Jane's roly poly puddings," chuckled the bunny. "Only this is a pebble pudding, for it is full of hardpebbles. It wouldn't do to eat. This pebble pudding is like the sand pies we made yesterday."

Uncle Wiggily was sort of talking to himself about the pudding, and he was trying to think of a story, when, all of a sudden, up out of the ocean came two bad little Sea Urchins. They were mischevious chaps, almost as troublesome as the Sand Flipper. One of them cried:

"We heard what you said about a pudding! Give it to us! Give us that pudding before we tickle you with a sharp shell!"

"Why, my dear little Sea Urchins, I have no pudding!" said the bunny, speaking politely, and hoping the little scamps would do the same.

"What's that?" asked the second of the Sea Urchins, pointing to the bunch of seaweed on the beach.

"That," said Uncle Wiggily, "is a pebble pudding I made, just for fun, but it isn't good to eat. It is full of—"

"Just for fun we'll eat it!" cried the Sea Urchins. "You don't want us to but we will!" And before the rabbit could stop them, those little tykes

"All right," laughed Nurse Jane stuffed the seaweed pudding into their mouths, each taking half. But as soon as they chewed on the "pudding" they bit on the hard pebbles, breaking off some of their teeth.

"Oh, kadinkus, kadinkus!" howled the Sea Urchins, holding their paws to their aching jaws. "Pebble pudding is no good!"

"I told you so!" laughed the bunny as the little scamps leaped back into the sea. But it served them right, I think. And if the dogwood tree doesn't bark at the pussy willows when they are swiming with the gold fish, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the stick sands.

IN WOMAN'S DOMAIN

MRS. SCHOFIELD TO ATTEND NATIONAL COUNCIL MEETING

Will Accompany Bishop to the East Next Thursday

The Bishop of Columbia and Mrs. Schofield will leave for the East on Thursday next and will be absent from the city until the end of October. The Bishop has an itinerary of ecclesiastical engagements, the first of which will be to attend the consecration of the new Bishop at Brandon, Manitoba, on September 7. From there he will proceed to Toronto to attend a meeting of the General Synod of the Anglican Church of Canada.

While in the East Mrs. Schofield will look into a number of matters associated with her work in connection with the church and also with the Local Council of Women, of which she is president. In Hamilton she will attend the sessions of the triennial convention of the W.A. and from there will proceed to Toronto for the annual meeting of the National Council of Women which commences on October 8.

As it is some years since a president of the Local Council has been in attendance at the National gathering, the members are looking forward to a stimulation of local interest in its work as a consequence of Mrs. Schofield's personal contact with the parent body and its deliberations.

CATERING SMALL ITEM OF CAMP

Girl Guide Association Hears Splendid Reports; Generous Gifts

To provide three hearty meals and two light lunches daily for ten days at a cost of $3 per head for the whole period is an achievement of which any housekeeper might well be proud. This was the accomplishment of Miss Leighton, who as camp commandant of the recent Girl Guides' camp at Mills' Landing, had charge of the catering, and at last night's meeting of the local association she was warmly congratulated on her success.

Miss Unwin, the treasurer, and Mrs. Alexander, secretary, gave detailed reports. Votes of thanks were enthusiastically passed to Mrs. Nichol, Provincial Commissioner, for her kindness in placing Government House grounds at the disposal of the guides for a garden party and for her generous donation, also to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor for his generous gift of $100. Mr. Moody, who had charge of the camp transportation arrangements, was also warmly thanked for his kindly consideration.

The proceeds of the garden fete at Government House amounted to $449.41, and after the camp expenses were paid, sums in proportionate relation were allocated to the Guide and Brownie companies who took part in the arrangements. The balance of $175 was handed to the Provincial Association for much-needed funds.

Mrs. Kinloch, District Commissioner, presided at the meeting.

HORRIBLE DEATH FOR CHINESE WOMAN

Notorious Bandit Pays Dreadful Penalty For Many Crimes

Shanghai, Aug. 27.—"Old Mother" Djao, said to be the most notorious and bloodthirsty bandit the province of Shantung ever produced, has been executed at Ichowfu in Shantung, according to reports received in Shanghai by mission organizations. These advices add that the dreaded feminine bandit underwent that most fearsome of Chinese death penalties, the ling-che, or in English, the slicing process.

Forty-seven years old and an expert horsewoman, "Old Mother" Djao led a band of several hundred outlaws who terrorized a broad area. It is related of her that last Summer she planned an attack against Ichowfu after calling to her aid two added groups of bandits. They had assembled at a place near the village of Balihsiang when a homeguord of villagers, known as the "Big Knife Society," apprised of their purpose, attacked them and suffered utter defeat.

The villagers were driven back into Balihsiang and the bandits followed them. Then the gates of the village were closed and every man was shot down. Sixty women and children then were lined up, and "Old Mother" Djao was asked what to do with them. Her orders to kill them all were carried out with the result that every man, woman and child who was within the walls after the gates had been closed was slain. Even the cattle and dogs of the village suffered the same fate.

Ling-che is simply vivisection done by experts in such a manner that the victim survives in a conscious state through hours of a terrible ordeal.

MISS AUDREY RANT IS TO-DAY'S BRIDE

Pretty Ceremony at St. Mary's Church; Edward D. Clarke Bridegroom

One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place this afternoon at 3.30 at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, when Rev. Mr. Payne united in marriage Audrey Edith, daughter of Captain and Mrs. W. F. Rant of "Beverley," Burnside Road, and Mr. Edward Denman Clarke, son of the late Mr. A. F. Clarke and of Mrs. Clarke of "Essart," Newbury, Berks., England.

For the wedding service the church had been most artistically decorated with a profusion of Summer flowers by Mrs. Raymond McIlree, Mrs. Mellander and Miss Helen Streatfield.

As the bridal party proceeded up the aisle to the strains of the Wedding March, the bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Captain Rant, made a picture of lovely girlhood in her wedding gown of brocaded satin crepe, fashioned with simplicity and having a train of georgette over which was draped a handsome rose point Honiton lace veil, an heirloom in the groom's family. The folds of the veil were caught to the coiffeur with a wreath of orange blossoms and myrtle. The only ornament worn by the bride was a handsome platinum bar brooch set with diamonds centred with a magnificent pearl, the gift of the groom's mother. A shower bouquet of Ophelia roses completed the bridal attire.

Miss Doris Harper made a charming bridesmaid in a frock of white taffeta, fashioned with a long waist line and having a drapery of silver lace tissue attached to the left shoulder. She wore a bandeau of silver leaves and carried a shower boquet of pink and mauve sweet peas.

The groom was supported by Mr. H. B. Robb of Methosin. Mr. R. Van der Byl and Mr. Rawdie Matthews acted as ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Wyllie, St. Patrick Street. In the drawing-room, where the happy couple received the felicitations of the assembled guests, pink gladioli and Virginia creeper were most artistically arranged, while in the dining-room a profusion of asters, dahlia and gladioli in pastel shades formed the floral decoration in addition to that of the tea table, which was ornamented with dainty white anenomes and tulle, all decorations being the handiwork of Miss Kate Gaudin.

Later in the day, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke left by motor for Sproat Lake and after a short visit there will leave for an extended trip to Jamaica and later to Europe. The bride's traveling suit was a tailleur of slate grey cloth, with which was worn a toque of feathers to match with touches of orange, and an orange silk scarf.

Among the out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Robb of Metchosin, Mrs. A. McC. Creery and Miss Bell-Irving of Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. Matthews of Metchosin, Mr. and Mrs. Allan McLean of Metchosin and the Rev. and Mrs. Comley of Metchosin.

LAKE HILL W.I. HAD FINE SHOW

Excellent Exhibits at Ward One Show at Community Hall Yesterday

Community effort as organized by the women found expression in a splendid exhibition at the Lake Hill Community Hall yesterday afternoon for the annual Ward I flower show, under the auspices of the Lake Hill Women's Institute. Flowers, fruit, vegetables, the domestic arts, and children's work all found a place in the very commendable range of exhibits, and Reeve Macnicol's congratulations to the women in his opening address were well merited by the organizers.

One of the outstanding features of the show was the magnificent collection of dahlias and gladiolii exhibited by Mr. William Palmer. These were not for competition, and at the close Mr. Palmer generously auctioned them off for the funds of the community centre. Another exhibit which aroused much attention was that of child welfare arranged by Miss Fullerton, of the Saanich War Memorial Centre.

Many congratulations on the success of the affair are due to Mrs. W. Mercer, president of the institute; to Mrs. Fooks, the energetic general convener; Mrs. Webster, secretary; Mrs. Fuggle, plain and fancy sewing; Mrs. Winkel, home economic exhibit; Mrs. Currie, children's work; Mrs. Moody, children's flower exhibit; Mrs. Peddle, Mrs. Ackerman and the young ladies who assisted with the refreshments; Mrs. Wm. Peddle and Mrs. Mercer, home cooking; and Miss Mabel Holyoake, who was at the door. Miss Lowe and Miss Annabel had charge of the delightful musical programme. HAKATA MARU HAS LARGE SILK CARGO

Leaves 130 Tons of Freight Here; Docked This Morning

The N.Y.K. steamship Hakata Maru came into port at 8.30 a.m. to-day bringing a cargo from Oriental points, of which about 130 tons were unloaded here for Victoria and Vancouver. The Hakata, skippered by Captain Dote, carried a consignment of silk of about 2,000 bales for United States cities, amongst which are New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and Reading, Pennsylvania. Approximately ninety per cent. of the silk will be shipped to New York importers.

The Hakata carried a general cargo of 754 tons, which included a shipment of porcelain, loaded at Nagoya, an allotment of crude camphor, taken on at Kobe, and general merchandise from Yokohama. In this latter shipment were brushes, Japanese beans, matting, matches and various other commodities.

The silk cargo is being handled by the Great Northern Railroad, whose agent here is A. H. Hebb.

The ship was unloaded here this morning in good time and cleared shortly after 11 o'clock. She will be in Seattle later in the afternoon, and there her silk will be loaded upon a special train, which will rush it eastward.

During her crossing from the Orient the Hakata Maru experienced the best of weather.

Alberta Asks For Postponement of Rate Reduction

Ottawa, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press)—Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Marine, has received a request from the Alberta Government that the increase of cargo rates on grain by the Vancouver Harbor Board should be postponed. The request probably will be before the Cabinet at its next meeting. It is asserted, however, in defence of the new rates that they are reasonable, lower than in any other place in the world for the same service and necessary in view of the obligations of the port. Provision for the new rates was made by order-in-council some time ago.

They will come into effect on September 1 unless suspended in the interval.

San Francisco, Aug. 28.—Charters announced here include the steamships Asama Maru, lumber, North Pacific to Japan, $7.50, September; Etna Maru, lumber, British Columbia to north of Hatteras, $12, by the South Alberta Lumber Company, September; a Japanese steamship, lumber, British Columbia to north of Hatteras, $12, by Krauss Brothers, October.

SHIPMASTER OF ANCHOR LINE IS NOW VISITING HERE

Capt. J. Wilson, Who is Enjoying Fishing Trip, Came to Pacific Coast in 1875

A Scottish angler whose record catch of a twenty-eight and a half pound salmon in the Tay, in the Duke of Athol's preserves, has been eclipsed by a beautiful fifty-two and a half pounder at Campbell River, is Captain John Wilson, O.B.E., R. N.R., who is now in his seventieth year, as spruce and active as many a man twenty years his junior.

Captain Wilson, who is staying at the Dominion Hotel, after viewing the scenic attractions of Vancouver Island, came out with his wife to visit a married son in Vancouver. Next November they will leave for Bombay to visit a married daughter.

HIS CAREER

A long record, of which any deep sea mariner might be proud, lies behind the career of Captain Wilson, who ran in the New York and Glasgow run for twenty-six years. Later he retired from the sea, and was marine superintendent of the Anchor line interests in Glasgow until he finally retired in order to make these tours. He went to sea in the days of the fine sailing ships which scoured the seven seas, and expresses his regret that the fine sailers are many of them in Davy Jones's locker, or eking out a degraded or sorrowful existence as coal hunks in various scattered ports.

Changed as has been the situation in the lanes of travel, no less varied are the conditions of ownership. Gone are the days when an owner proudly trod the decks of his ship when after many days the good ship made port. The family ownership has passed, and mergers of shipowners lose the personal touch in the founders whose associations with the founders are only maintained through directorates. The Anchor Interests themselves represent a merger of four shipping concerns, some with family flags going back into the eighteenth century.

AMERICAN EXCLUSION PLAN

The Anchor Line has extensive connections, and a long tradition with the trans-Atlantic trade, and like many companies which carried a large number of steerage passengers to America, the quota system of the United States immigration law has annihilated that trade, he points out.

Captain Wilson, who, in addition to his cordon of the Order of the British Empire, is also posessor of the Reserve decoration, was out in Pacific waters in 1875, but only came as far north as San Francisco, when the Barbary Coast there was a reality and not as now a tradition. He was impressed with the Pacific Coast at that time, and always intended to come back. Now his desire is realized.

When he crossed on the liner Athenia, one of the first to greet him on this side was an official who, as a youth, he had taken across the Atlantic, and had made him a guest in his home in Glasgow.

His company has four vessels on the stocks at present in the Old Country. They lost so many vessels in the Great War that it has taken some time to replace them. Shipbuilding for passenger boats is not what it used to be, for it was the cargo boats which made the money in days of yore, Captain Wilson observes.

KNEW LOCAL BOATS

He knew the Ss. Princess Patricia when she ran in pleasure service on the Clyde as the Queen Alexandra, the second turbine driven ship of that type to operate in those waters. He was on the Princess Charlotte on her trial trip, and was glad to renew acquaintance with these vessels here. To-day he called on Captain J. W. Troup, manager of the B. C. Coast Service, whom he knew in Scotland during the captain's visits on shipbuilding missions.

Textile Workers In England Wish To go to the U.S.

London, Aug. 28.—Increasing unemployment and strikes have caused a band of 3,800 skilled mechanics from the textile mills of Lancashire and Yorkshire to form an organization with the object of arranging their entrance into the United States.

Under the proportional system now in effect the districts are allowed but 2,300 of England's total migration quota of 34,000 and the mechanics' organization has lawyers busy attempting to upset the system or to have special facilities given in their case. In the event they are unsuccessful in these attempts, the members have agreed to draw lots for the privilege of going to the United States.

SAN FRANCISCO SHIPPING

San Francisco, Aug. 28.—The Rakuyo Maru, of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha line, left here yesterday for west coast ports of South America via canal points with a large general cargo and passenger list. Among the prominent passengers sailing was M. Shakenabu, newly-appointed Minister to Chile from Japan.

The motorship Carriso, of the Oceanic line, which was disabled with engine trouble 400 miles from San Francisco Sunday night, arrived here yesterday under its own power. The vessel had 5,702 tons of sugar from Hilo.

The Japanese steamer Koyo Maru arrived at Noyo, Northern California, yesterday from the Orient, according to advices received here. The vessel will load 350,000 feet of lumber and will complete its cargo at other Pacific Coast ports.

LOCH MONAR IN SEATTLE ON FIRST VOYAGE FROM BRITAIN TO THIS COAST

Brought Cargo of General Merchandise From Old Land, and Takes Back a Heavy Consignment of Apples, Salmon and Other Products in Her Spacious Holds.

The Loch Monar, the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company's new motorship, arrived in Seattle on Tuesday after a trip from Great Britain with a heavy consignment of freight. On her arrival in the Puget Sound city she finished the first and longest lap of her maiden voyage in the service fo her owners. She will proceed to Vancouver, after first going into quarantine at William Head, in the course of a short time, possibly within two days.

She inaugurates a new and speedier service between the Pacific Coast ports, Victoria, Vancouver, Seattle and other points, and the Old Country, and will be followed in periods of three weeks, by the Cardiganshire, Dinteldyk, Moerdyk, Loch Goil and Drechtdyk. All these ships cover the same ground.

The Loch Monar is one of three new motorships which the line now possesses and is a wonderfully fine craft for the trade she is in, having, as well as a large carrying capacity, all the modern improvement in refrigerator plants and many other attractions for shippers. Although the present service with this coast is in three-week periods, the new schedule will be of a shorter nature and quicker connections will result.

Findlay, Durham and Brodie, local agents for the company announced to-day that increased service will begin October 10 with the sailing of the motorship Loch Goil from London for the Pacific Coast.

NINE HUGE CARRIERS

The increase will give the Royal Mail nine huge carriers in the regular service to and from Seattle. The fleet at present consists of six such vessels. Accordingly, the company's decision means a fifty per cent increase in its regular service.

Besides the vessels of the regular service which is maintained the year around, the Royal Mail will add the usual number of extra refrigerator carriers for the coming apple season. Seattle trade exports have said that the increase in the regular service fleet is one of the most welcome signs of the times, that it forecasts greater days to come in the port's waterborne commerce. The Royal Mail pioneered and developed the movement of Washington apples to the other side of the Atlantic by the all-water route via the Panama Canal. This business will be bound to increase the activity on the waterfront here, it is assumed locally.

The Loch Monar, latest of the huge refrigerator motorships which the Royal Mail built for the Seattle route, arrived in Elliott Bay late Tuesday and tied up at the Port Commission's Spoke Street Terminal. She is on her maiden voyage. With a deadweight cargo capacity of 12,000 tons, the Loch Monar is 501 feet and 9 inches long and 62 feet 6 inches. She is equipped with twin diesel engines of 6,200 horsepower, giving an operating speed of 12½ knots. The vessel's construction and equipment includes all the latest improvements in refrigerator carriers. She has refrigerator space for 45,000 boxes of apples. Accommodations are provided for twenty-four cabin passengers.

BRINGS GENERAL CARGO

The Loch Monar brought canned goods, toys and general cargo from Great Britain and Europe. On the return voyage she will inaugurate the Royal Mail's apple shipping season, taking a substantial load of the Washington product. She also will load canned products, frozen salmon, mildcured salmon and general Northwest products.

The export movement of apples from Seattle in the coming season is expected to equal the great movement of last year, if it does not exceed it. The excellent condition of the apples when delivered in England by the refrigerator carriers from the Northwest, is reported to have made a remarkable impression on the British buyers.

BLUE FUNNEL BOAT HAS NEW CAPTAIN

Captain Evan Jones Commands Philocetes on Outbound Voyage

The Blue Funnel liner Philoctetes docked here early this morning, outbound for the Orient. Her skipper, Captain Evan Jones, a seafaring man of seventeen years' service with the Blue Funnel Line, and who has sailed every sea of the world, brought the Philoctates from Seattle in something less than four hours and thirty minutes. The ship left at 10.30 this morning.

The ship's cargo includes lumber for Hongkong and logs for Yokohama. Captain Jones stated that the Japanese demand for squares had almost subsided, and that the logs were taking their place. At Tacoma, Seattle and Vancouver the steamer loaded flour and salmon, as well as timber. Canned salmon aboard is for Japanese consumption.

Captain Jones is making his first transpacific voyage in command of the Philoctetes. He is greatly pleased with the ship and says that she is one of the finest freight carriers in the Pacific service.

Unheard of For Days, Exploring Ship Reported

Ottawa, Aug 28.—All is well aboard the Canadian Government steamer Arctic, Captain J. E. Bernier, now cruising in northern waters in the neighborhood of Ellesmere Island. Nothing had been heard of the Arctic since August 10, but yesterday an unknown amateur radio operator in Kenneth, Minnesota, picked up an Arctic message and forwarded it to the Interior Department.

The Arctic does not report having met with the United States MacMillan expedition, which wintered in Refuge Harbor, north of Etah, Greenland, and therefore it is assumed she was unable to deliver the mail for MacMillan's expedition which she carried north.

CARRYING CHINESE COLLEGE STUDENTS

President Jackson, Delayed One Day, Due From Orient in Short Time

When the President Jackson of the Admiral Oriental line arrives in this port on September 7 or 8, she will bring an unusually large list of passengers, the largest, in fact, for this time of year that the line can report in its history. At Shanghai the list was increased by the addition of 225 Chinese students from Teinghaa College, Peking, and various other educational points.

These students are en route to the United States to be enrolled at various American educational institutions, and on their arrival in Seattle, after she has called here, will remain three days, during which time they are to be entertained by the local Chinese Club and other bodies. This group will mark the second large contingent of Chinese students to come to the States through this port, as the Admiral Oriental line steamship President Jackson brought a party of 189 last year.

The President Jefferson reported to the Seattle headquarters of the Admiral line yesterday as having been delayed one day in the China Sea due to the prevalence of a typhoon, but that no further delays were anticipated, according to the message from Capt. Francis R. Nichols, commanders of the big liner.

The Admiral Oriental line freighters West Himrod and Eldridge are en route to this coast from the Orient, the former being expected at Vancouver, B. C., September 4, while the Eldridge is to berth in Seattle September 2. Both ships are bringing large consignments of Oriental freight, including vegetable oils, and will probably call here.

SEATTLE SHIPPING

Seattle, Aug. 28.—A lease granted the Standard Oil Company for the street end at Railroad Avenue and East Marginal Way was extended for a year at yesterday's meeting of the Port of Seattle Commission.

Advices received by J. J. McGowan, resident manager for the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, operating a joint service with the Holland-American line, stated three additional vessels would be added to the North Pacific coast service of the line.

The Pacific Steamship Company's southeastern Alaska excursion liner Admiral Rogers sailed yesterday with 175 passengers for Alaska ports.

The Cunard-Anchor line to British ports is offering special inducements to unemployed shipbuilders on the Pacific Coast desiring employment on the river Cylde, it was learned here yesterday. Persons of British extraction may go to the Clyde and be re-admitted to the United States within one year without being subject to the immigration restriction act, E. E. Ullberg, resident agent for the Cunard line, stated.

Two new passenger liners of 10,000 tons each, building in England for the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, will be delivered in Japaan the end of the year, said advices received yesterday. They will be placed on the transpacific route between Pacific ports and Yokohama.

The time used is Pacific standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, above the average level of lower low water.

Esquimalt.—To find the depth of water on the sill of the dry dock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

"Carbonless" —for Thousands of Extra Miles

IT is with considerable—and, we believe, pardonable—pride that we publish letters like that above from users of Aristo Motor Oil.

These letters are evidence that this "carbon"-reducing lubricant is very highly appreciated.

* * * * * *

You may not be aware of the fact that all motor oils deposit a certain amount of residue.

Some of this residue you know as "carbon". It is hard and gritty and has a tendency to cling to spark plugs, valves, cylinder walls and pistons.

You are familiar with the "missing", the power loss, the possible damage to the metals, and the frequent necessity of removal with the attendant motor lay-up and labor charges caused by "carbon".

* * * * * *

Do you know of the soft, fluffy residue from Aristo, most of which blows out with the exhaust almost as fast as it forms, a "carbon" that lacks the tendency to cling—one that permits driving for 10,000—20,000—50,000 miles without removal, as testimonials from Aristo users clearly and definitely state?

* * * * * *

We ask you to take the word of these users. Their testimony is worth something to you if you are interested in a greater mileage from your oil with full protection and less trouble and expense from "carbon".

The name "Aristo" is a shortening of the phrase, "the aristocrat among motor oils". We believe it holds this unique position in its field.

BREAKING UP RING OF GEM THIEVES

New York Police Arrest Two Men and Woman; Recover $4,750

Robbers Took $15,000,000 Worth of Jewels in Past Year

New York, Aug. 28—In the arrest early to-day of two men and a woman charged with the robbery of Alexander Feldensheimer of $100,000 worth of uncut diamonds on August 22, the police and private detectives representing Lloyds of London believe they have taken the first step in the disorganization of a clever band of gem thieves and the clearing up of robberies involving millions of dollars' worth of jewels.

The woman, Mrs. Dorothy Burns, twenty-two years old, turned over to the police $4,750, which she said was the remainder of the money obtained from the sale of the diamonds. The other prisoners, James J. Burns, a chauffeur and the woman's husband, and Harry Chance, both twenty years old, denied any connection with the case.

The woman, according to the police, admitted having taken part in the robbery of Feldensheimer's office, which is on the ninth floor of 150 Broadway. Feldensheimer and a customer were bound with wire before the robbers began selecting their loot.

THE FIRST STEP

Gerald Luisi, representative of Lloyds, declared the arrests to be "the opening wedge in the complete disorganization of a clever band of international gem thieves."

This band, he said, was responsible for the theft of more than $15,000,000 worth of jewels during the last year in the wholesale jewelry district of New York, below the police "deadline."

The three prisoners were arrested in a restaurant in East 82nd Street.

NEW APPOINTMENTS

Premier Oliver to-day announced the appointments of James Mercer of Hope as Justice of the Peace and the rescinding of the appointment of C. A. Davidson of Windermere as a justice.

HARVEST TRAINS FROM EAST STOP

Montreal, Aug. 28.—The Canadian National Railways yesterday cancelled a harvesters' train which was to have taken harvesters from Western Ontario and which was scheduled to leave Toronto on September 3. This was done following advices from Western Canada that no further harveters were needed from the East. There will be no more Canadian National harvest trains this year. The C.P.R. also announced to-day that they would run no more. About 20,000 harvesters from Eastern Canada, about evenly divided between the two railways, have been taken West, it is said.

FOUR OF CREW OF SCHOONER MISSING

Julia F. C. Wrecked Off Bird Island, Near Cape Breton Coast

Coasting Vessel Was Driven Ashore; Passengers and Crew Landed

Sydney, N.S., Aug. 28.—Captain Devon and three members of the crew of the schooner Julia F. C. are missing since the craft was hit by the hurricane off the Bird Islands on Tuesday night. The schooner, with jib torn away, her mainsail gone at the heads and her cabin smashed, was last reported dragging her anchor thirteen miles from Bird Island.

COASTING VESSEL ASHORE

Sydney, N.S., Aug. 28.—The coastal steamer Aspy with fifty passengers and about twenty of a crew, was driven on the rocks at Long Point, Neil's Harbor, in Tuesday night's storm, but with comparatively calm water between the reef and shore all on board made land in safety. Owing to failure of wire service to northern Cape Breton the story of the wreck had to come overland.

SWINDLERS TOOK MORE THAN $14,000

Vancouver Citizen Says Confidence Men Used Horse Race as Bait

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—Confidence men swindled W. B. Heaver, Glencoe Lodge, out of more than $14,000 on a horse race betting transaction, according to Mr. Heaver's complaint to the police here. The confidence men, it is stated, were working on a large scale and the bet to be placed was $153,000, to which Heaver contributed more than $14,000.

Heaver said he had met the confidence men on several occasion, and they had given all indications of being men of means who were keenly interested in horse races.

"A SURE THING"

After gaining his confidence they induced him to join in their bets. A "sure thing" for a "place" bet on Pinehurst was secured yesterday by the men. After conversation as to the prospects of this tip, it was decided to make a "killing" and place a huge amount.

The two race fans contributed an apparent large amount and Heaver was induced to part with £3,000, bringing the total to $153,000.

MEN DISAPPEARED

One of the strangers departed with the money to place it with a local bookmaker he claimed to know. After some time he returned and said he had been induced to lay the bet "straight" and the horse had lost.

Later both men disappeared and when Heaver discovered he had been swindled no trace of them could be found.

It was agreed that Premier Herriot and Finance Minister Clementel should begin on September 8 the task of eliminating all unnecessary expenses from the budgets of the various ministries.

TELLS STORY OF WRITTEN RECORDS OF EARLY VOYAGES

B.C.'s Leading Historian Talks Interestingly to Librarians

Judge Howay Throws Light on Early History of B.C. Coast

New light on the early history of British Columbia was thrown in a most interesting address given by Judge Howay, president of the B.C. Historical Association, and western representative of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada, to the Pacific Northwest Library Association last evening.

His Honor pointed out that since he had read the check list issued by C. W. Smith, of the University of Washington Library, Seattle, who is the chairman of the association's committee on Pacific Northwest bibliography, he had wished to talk to librarians about the books which contemporary literature described, but which were so rare that only a few people had seen them, and also to give them some suggestions in advising readers about studying the period under discussion.

The speaker covered the period from 1774, starting with the Perez expedition, to the second edition of the journals of Captain Vancouver, pointing out that the original intention to discuss the published works of that period about this coast by British, American, French, and Spanish writers had been curtailed to one of dealing with the British writers only.

In a wonderful address filled with detail of every description, and showing that perfect knowledge which places the judge in the first rank as a historian in this part of the world, His Honor turned the pages of history back to the beginnings of British association with this coast.

NEW MATERIAL IN M.S.S.

Having shown how in spite of all precautions to impound diaries and documents of the men who participated in the third voyage of Captain Cook, prior to the publication of the official record under Sir Joseph Bankes's auspices, and edited by Bishop John Douglas of Salisbury, there appeared several accounts by participants, the speaker said the same precautions were taken by Vancouver, and several diaries and records (sixteen in number) remained in manuscript in the British Museum, and he understood from Mr. Forsyth, the provincial librarian, that the intention was to endeavor to secure permission for publication of some of these diaries. If that were done, they would then have an opportunity to check up the accuracy of Vancouver's narratives, as they had already through the unauthorized editions of Cook's travels, to check up Cook's record, as continued, after the death of Captain King.

As a result of his recent visit to Nootka, His Honor came out emphatically in the opinion that Captain Cook did not anchor at Friendly Cove, but at Resolution Cove, Bligh Island.

He renewed the advice which has often been given by others with regard to the character of John Meares, that his narrative, unsupported, must not be depended upon, and termed the famous memorial to the British House of Commons the "best example of mendacity and duplicity" connected with the period.

His Honor opened the eyes of the audience, at any rate those who had not specially studied the question, when he showed how every volume of travel in English about this coast published from 1780 onwards had been translated into French, and how during the wars with France instructions were issued to the French privateers to pass through as neutrals British naval ships which had been engaged in exploratory work in the Pacific Ocean.

Hope was expressed that the address may be given before some other audience in Victoria during the coming Winter.

Then came a fine set of motion pictures of British Columbia scenery.

SAILORS IN NORTH CALL FOR AEROPLANE

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—An appeal that help be sent them by aeroplane has come out of the Arctic by wireless from the men of the Lady Kindersley, Hudson's Bay Company motor schooner, trapper in an ice field north of Point Barrow Alaska.

The appeal has been forwarded to Ottawa and the question of dispatching help is under advisement. The plan suggested is that the Canadian destroyer Partician should pick up a plane at the Jericho Air Station here and rush it North until the Bay Chimo, steaming to the relief of the Lady Kindersley, is overtaken. The plane would be transferred to the Bay Chimo and taken to the edge of the ice, from where it would make a flight to the Lady Kindersley and bring out her nineteen men in a series of trips.

U.S. Fliers Hope To Leave Greenland Coast To-morrow

Aboard U.S.S. Richmond at Ice Tickle, Labrador, Aug. 28.—A fringe of the violent storm which has been traveling northward over the Atlantic for several days, and warnings of which caused further postponement of the United States world aviators' flight here from Ivigtut, Greenland, struck the Labrador coast here yesterday.

There were heavy winds, accompanied by rain, throughout the afternoon and evening, but the local forecast prepared by an army meteorologist indicates clearing weather, possibly in time to allow the aviators to carry out their desire to leave Ivigtut to-morrow.

Forty Were Killed and Many Hurt in Railroad Wreck in South Russia

Odessa, Aug. 28.—Forty passengers were killed and a large number were injured when the express train from Odessa to Moscow which left here last night was derailed 200 miles from here. The accident was caused by a break in the track, which apparently had been purposely torn from its bed by unidentified persons.

The train was going at high speed when the accident took place. The engine was hurled on its side and its boiler exploded, causing a fire which spread rapidly to the coaches. Relief trains were dispatched from the nearest station and from Odessa, where definite word as to the number of victims is awaited.

VESSELS WRECKED IN NOVA SCOTIA WATERS AND LIVES WERE LOST

Halifax, Aug. 28.—It became apparent to-day that the storm which swept over this province Tuesday night took a heavy toll of life and shipping. Sections of the Nova Scotia coast are strewn with wreckage and many vessels have failed to report at their destinations. Not for years has such surf piled up along the ledges and shoals of the province, dashing its victims to destruction.

There is hope that the crew, six all told, of the three-masted schooner Anna McDonald, portions of which have come ashore on the lonely Prospect Ledges, near here, are alive.

The United States cruising yacht Shanghai was wrecked off White Point Bluff, Canso, but her company was heroically and miraculously saved.

The schooner Lady Thorburn, Captain M. Pearson broke her anchor chain and became a complete wreck on the rocks at South Linxardoise.

The schooner Julia F. C., Captain Devons, reported abandoned and about to become a total wreck near the Bird Rocks, sailed into Sydney last night just as several craft were about to be dispatched in search of her. The captain stated his sailors were dead tired with fighting the storm and were sound asleep in their bunks when hailed by the vessel which brought the news of their peril to Sydney and did not hear either hails or whistles.

TO SIGN LONDON PACT ON SATURDAY

Powers, Including Germany, to Affix Signatures to Reparations Scheme

Disorders in German Reichstag; Debate Postponed Till To-morrow

London, Aug. 28—The formal signing of the pact to make effective the Dawes reparations plan, concluded at the recent International Conference, will take place at the Foreign Office in Downing Street at noon Saturday.

Sir Eyre Crowe, Permanent Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, will sign on behalf of Great Britain, while the Allies and the Germans will be represented by their respective Ambassadors and Ministers.

While no definite information on the subject has yet been made public, it is understood the German Government has signified its intention of signing the pact even should the Reichstag refuse a two-thirds majority for passing the legislation necessary to make the Dawes plan effective.

The United States Ambassador plans to be present when the pact is signed, but will not affix his name to it.

REICHSTAG DISORDERS

Berlin, Aug. 28—Final balloting in the Reichstag on the bills necessary to carry out Germany's part of the Dawes reparations programme was postponed until to-morrow because of the prolonged interruptions from the Communists. The disturbances in the House yesterday culminated in general fighting and the President of the Reichstag, to restore order, was compelled to call in a police squad and have three of the Communists removed.

Unless the Nationalists decide to give the legislative programme negative support by permitting defections from their lineup when the last vote is taken, there is scant hope of the Government obtaining the two-thirds majority required for final passage. The bills yesterday were given their second reading only by a majority of 248 to 174.

DISSOLUTION THREAT

Determined upon ratification of the Dawes programme regardless of the attitude of the deputies, Chancellor Marx has obtained from President Ebert a decree providing for the dissolution of the Reichstag, which he intends to use if the necessary two-thirds vote is not forthcoming.

The Socialists are insistently clamoring for early dissolution and a general election and the incidents of the last few days have increased the feeling among the bourgeois parties that the Government should exert its authority in this direction.

The middle parties, however, believe that even should the Cabinet ratify the London pact, a general election at this time would bring about a grave economic and political upheaval within Germany.

PROMINENT LUMBER MAN DIED SUDDENLY

Thomas Walklake, C.P.R. Official, Was Well-known Throughout Canada

Montreal, Aug. 28.—Thos. Walklate, general tie agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, passed away at noon to-day at the Royal Victoria Hospital where he had been a patient for the past week. "Tommy Walklate"—was known to every lumber producer in the Dominion and to most men connected in an important way with the lumber industry. He claimed to know every foot of timber producing country, and he was, indeed, the greatest authority on ties in Canada. His death removes a very prominent and kindly figure from the lumber world.

Born in England, sixty-nine years ago, Mr. Walklate came to Canada in his early youth and secured employment under T. R. Booth, first as scaler and later as storeman. In March, 1885, he joined the Canadian Pacific Railway as lumber buyer in the purchasing department. Two years later he became chief tie inspector and in 1903 general tie agent, a position he held up to the time of his death. Despite his age he was most active in his work, and his passing is a distinct loss to the country.

He was born at Old Catton, Norwich, in 1860, and was educated at the Norwich Grammar School. For a time he was editor of the National Press Agency and later was parliamentary correspondent of The London Chronicle. Among his publications are "The London Daily Press," Labor and Protection" and many articles in magazines.

VANCOUVER PROTEST

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—Representations will be made to the Provincial Government by the Vancouver Police Commission protesting against the long season of racing which is permitted in the Vancouver district, necessitating a very large amount of work upon the police department of the city which it should not be called upon to perform. The action was taken as a result of statements made by Mayor W. R. Owen and Commissioner Robert McPherson at a meeting of the commission to-day.

MAY MAKE ARRESTS

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—Investigation will be continued, and possibly arrests will be made in connection with the publication of alleged fictitious names as winners of the markets competition run in the columns of the now defunct B.C. Veterans' Weekly, as a result of an inquiry made at the meeting of the Vancouver Police Commission by Commissioner Robert McPherson to-day.

Visiting Seniors Lead In Championship Round

At the conclusion of yesterday's playing in the first eighteen holes of the association championship of the Seniors' Northwest Golf Association the two crack American players Josiah Collins and F. R. Van Tuyl of Seattle were tied for the best gross score with cards of 83. To-day the final eighteen holes of the championship will be played and the veteran club wielder with the best gross score will be this year's champion.

In the best net score for the first eighteen holes Dr. Garesche of Victoria and M. A. Arnold, another of Seattle's veteran player were even each with a score of sixty-nine each. There were prizes yesterday for the best gross and best net scores made. In yesterday's putting competition F. R. Van Tuyl of Seattle again carried off the honors with a score of 36 for the eighteen holes. A fine driving competition was staged in which R. W. Gibson carried off the honors in A class with a distance of 196 yards. A. M. McIlreevy won the prize in Class B, while W. A. Ward of Vancouver was the best in class C with a distance of 229 yards.

BOGEY COMPETITION

In class B of the bogey competition staged on Tuesday J. H. Bloedel of Seattle and E. A. Strout of the same city, played off their tie for first, the former winning after a close match. Besides the second round of the championship, to be staged this afternoon, there will be putting competitions and informal matches will be arranged.

To-morrow the international matches will be played between first and second Canadian and American teams. Josiah Collins leads the first American fifteen while W. A. Ward of Vancouver leads the Canadians. The second teams are headed by Sir Frank Barnard for the Canadians and J. B. Kerr of Portland will be at the head of the visitors.

In the second international match entries are to be made with the starter at the time when ready to go.

FINEST ORGANIZATION IN THE HISTORY OF GREAT WINTER SPORT

Calgary, Aug. 28. — Complete unanimity prevailed at the Western Canada Hockey League meeting when it was decided to amalgamate the coast and prairie leagues.

Wes Champ, Regina manager, expressed himself as being pleased with the arrangement and Kenny McKenzie, Edmonton, said it looked like the finest hockey organization in the history of sport.

Lloyd Turner, head of the Calgary Tigers, and Joe Ganguish, leader of the Saskatoon team, were equally elated over the joining up of the two organizations.

MONTREAL FROWNS ON WEST OFFSIDE RULE

Montreal, Aug. 28.—Professional hockey magnates in this city do not think much of the new rule adopted by the Western Canada League which calls for no "off-sides" on any section of the ice except when crossing from one section to another. Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League, and Manager Leo Dandurand of the Canadiens, to-day expressed the opinion that it would not benefit hockey.

Corinthians Lose Last Game in West To Canadian Stars

Connaught Cup Holders Beat Soccer Visitors by Score of Two Goals to One

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 28. — Corinthians, touring English footballers, were defeated here last night by Weston, champions of Canada and holders of the Connaught Cup, 2 to 1. It was Corinthians last game in the West. A crowd of 4,000 saw the game.

Weston was the better team in the initial half and never allowed their more finished opponents to settle down. Due to poor generalship of Reid, a half-back, who was playing goal for the Old Country boys, the Dominion champions gained a two-goal lead in the first half.

EVERYTHING BUT GOALS

Settling down in the second half the Corinthians played a pretty game and did everything with the ball but put it into the net. The Corinthians were all over Weston, but could only locate the net one occasion. Slidder opened the scoring for Weston when Grant dropped a high one into the goal, and when Reid ran out of his net, Lang slipped the ball to the burly centre, who headed it into the goal. Thirty-five minutes Grant ran down the wing and cut in, driving a wicked shot which Reid misjudged and the ball found a goal.

ONE OF THE BEST

The Corinthians lone goal came after eighteen minutes of going in the second period, when Creek slipped the ball to Knight, who score one of the best goals seen on a local pitch this season.

Morrison and Glenister were the bright stars for the Corinthians, while the King brothers and Matthews played a great game for Weston.

NEARING END OF HIS CAREER, GREAT SHORTSTOP IS HAVING GREAT YEAR

ROGER PECKINPAUGH

BY BILLY EVANS

IN Roger Peckinpaugh the Washington club has one of the greatest shortstops that has ever graced the game.

Peckinpaugh, having one of the best years of his long and brilliant career, is perhaps the most valuable shortstops in the major leagues this year.

Always a sensational fielder, Peckinpaugh's work in this respect has simply been uncanny this year. At the bat his hits have invariably been timely. In the pinch he does his best work.

In figuring a player's value, consideration must be given to the hits he takes away from the opposition by some brilliant play. If the hits Peck robs the opposition of were added to his batting average, his mark this year would be well over .400.

During the month of July I umpired twenty-two straight games with the Washington club while it was making its sensational dash to the top of the American League race.

HELPS WINNING STREAK

No player did more to help that winning streak than Peckinpaugh. In those twenty-two games I feel that I am conservative in saying I saw him make forty seemingly impossible plays.

Peckinpaugh is a veteran. A few years ago some of the critics had him slipping fast. It is hard to tell how many more big years he has in his system. When an infielder breaks he goes quickly.

Despite the fact that the star of Peckinpaugh is waning, the club hasn't the slightest worry as to his successor. In Osee Bluege, now playing third base for the Nationals, Stanley Harris feels he has just the man to succeed the clever Peckinpaugh.

PECK PRAISES BLUEGE

"He is one of the greatest fielders I have ever seen," is the tribute Peck pays Bluege. "Fast on his feet, owning a good arm and the possessor of a wonderful pair of hands, Bluege has a great future as a shortstop. I would like to be starting my major league career with his chance to become a star," says Peck.

Bluege is doing well enough at third but prefers shortstop. However, with Peckinpaugh at his best, Bluege will probably be assigned to third until the veteran starts to slip.

"I have the two best shortstops in the business," says Manager Harris. "For the next ten years Washington, barring accidents, should have no worries about that position."

The passing of the brilliant Peckinpaugh merely means the arrival of the sensational Bluege.

ISLAND POLO CHAMPIONSHIP FEATURE OF GALA SATURDAY

An added attraction has been arranged for the Elks Swimming Club gala to be held on Saturday afternoon at the Gorge, when the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club and the Elks' Swimming Club polo teams will battle for the Vancouver Island polo championship and the Little & Taylor cup. The trophy was won by the Y.M.C.A. Swimming Club last season, when they defeated the V.A.S.C. team in one of the most exciting and closely contested water polo games ever witnessed in local waters. Owing to the departure of all their crack players from the city the "Y" has not reorganized the swimming club this season, and so it has fallen to the lot of the two remaining aquatic teams to fight it out to see who will hold the handsome trophy for the ensuing year. This event will round off an excellent programme and should provide plenty of thrills for the large number of spectators who are expected to attend the gala. Several entries have been received from the Mainland for the Canadian diving championship, and the local springboard artists will have plenty of stiff competition to keep the honors on the Island.

Such local stars as Audrey Griffin, Gracie and Kathie Wellburn, Tommy Wellburn, Bert Buller and others have already sent in their entries, which will assure some keen hard-fought races. The greasy pole and duck chases will add the necessary amount of merriment to the gala to make it an enjoyable afternoon's entertainment.

GIRL OF FIFTEEN IS SENSATION OF COURTS

Narragansett Pier, N.Y., Aug. 28.—Miss Helen Jacobs, fifteen-year-old school girl tennis sensation from San Francisco, electrified the gallery at the Narragansett Pier invitation tourney with her playing yesterday, outclassing her opponents in the second rounds of both the singles and doubles. She followed up her love set victory in the opening round of the singles Monday by defeating Beatrice Jones, 6-1, 6-2. Paired with Miss Gertrude Ginn in the double, she defeated Miss Lucie Chase and Mrs. John Welsh, 6-2, 6-1.

Willard Croker of Canada, the remaining invader to go out, was a victim of George Lott, Chicago, holder of the national junior championship, who won in straight sets with the same brilliant brand of tennis that gave him victory over Williams.

Among the other remaining outstanding performers, Francis T. Hunter experienced difficulty putting out a collegian, Fritz Mercur, but Rene La Coste of France demonstrated that he may be more formidable than his compatriot, Borotra, by eliminating John Caldwell of Atlanta, in straight sets.

Young Stribling and Paul Berlenbach Draw

New York, Aug. 28.—W. L. "Young" Stribling, Georgia light heavyweight and Paul Berlenbach, slugging New Yorker, fought to a draw last night in a slashing battle between two of the ring's youngest and latest fistic sensations. A shade of ringside newspaper opinion apparently favored Stribling, but there was a little outburst of approval when the judges declared the match a draw after six rounds of speedy fighting before a crowd of approximately 25,000 in the New York Velodrome, Tex Rickard's Harlem arena. Each weighed 167½ pounds.

BRITISH RUGBY MEN LOSE

Pretoria, S.A., Aug. 28.—Pretoria defeated the British Rugby team, touring South Africa, here yesterday by six to nothing.

Modern Fighters Better Business Heads Than Vets

Old Timers Were More Reckless and Liked to Fight; To-day Money is Thing

Edgren Tells Incidents of Early Ring Days to Show How Boys Fought

By ROBERT EDGREN

Are modern boxers in a class with the old timers?

Every week I get a box full of letters from old time boxers or fight fans who claim the up-to-date champion is a counterfeit when compared to the strong boys back in the eighties and nineties, and before that. Hardly a day goes by without an eight page protest from some veteran who used to go out into the woods to see John L. Sullivan fight, or who followed Jack McAuliffe or Jack Dempsey the Nonpareil, or who watched when Kid Lavigne battled Joe Walcott to a stand still, or saw Terry McGovern go through Pedlar Palmer of England like a cyclone. The old timers are loyal to old time fighters. They think that modern ringsters ought to be behind ribbon counters. According to old timers the champions we have to-day don't know how to put their hands up, and don't know what real fighting is.

So far as I have seen, there's little physical difference between old time champions and champions up-to-date. There are as good men now as there ever were in the ring. The chief difefrence is that old time fighters weren't influenced so much by the thought that winning meant a fortune and defeat was a form of bankruptcy.

THE DIFFERENCE

The fight was the greatest thing in the old days.

The money is the big thing to-day.

Old time fighters fought desperately and recklessly.

Modern fighters are extremely cautious. They take no risk that can be dodged. A championship is something to be grabbed if possible, and then to be held as long as possible by outwitting the other fellows who are after it. Dangerous matches are avoided, and the modern champion is very fond of no-decision matches in which he can run or stall and hold his title if he finds he can't win.

Jack Dempsey is the only champion to-day who fights with the reckless abandon of the old timers. Dempsey doesn't know how to stal, and would not if he could. He is the biggest money-maker the ring ever knew, and he takes good care of the money he earns, but in the ring he always goes out to win in the first round if he can. He'll dive in and trade punches with any man living. Dempsey likes money, but he isn't crazy over it. Manager Jack Kearns handles all the business, and Dempsey concentrates his mind on the training and the fighting.

BOB'S PECULIAR TRICKS

But there were some desperate birds in the old days. Bob Fitzsimmons would have delighted in taking on Jack Dempsey, confident of outmatching him in the battle of wits and slipping in the winning punch. Fitzsimmons feared nothing on earth, and was most dangerous when he reeled around the ring, apparently helpless. Many times Fitzsimmons was nearly knocked out, and won with a punch. Peter Maher had him on the floor, cold, for eight seconds. He got up, staggered into Peters with his hands down, and knocked Peter out with one terrific blow as soon as he could lift them again.

I saw Kid McCoy knocked down and nearly out by the great yellow haired fighter, Kid Carter, saved by the bell, walk out in the next round and totter across the ring to meet Carter in his own corner. McCoy couldn't lift a hand from his sides. His gloves dangled as he closed with Carter and he ducked to break the force of punches that grazed his ears. It was fully a minute in that third round before McCoy could get his hands up, and when he did he hit Carter a hook that threw him half way across the ring and headlong into the ropes.

DESPERATE FIGHTING

Desperate fighting followed, in which McCoy was knocked down six times, yet in the sixth round he was still on his feet, was forcing the fighting, and had Carter groggy and cut to pieces. McCoy was the cleverest boxer of his day, but desperate at all times. If he had come along now probably he would have been like most of the champions we see, a cautious business man.

Kid Lavigne at Maspeth, fighting the Barbadoes Demon, Joe Walcott, had both ears nearly torn off by blows, his eyes closed, nose broken, teeth splintered. Still he rushed and fought until Walcott broke under the fierce pace and backed away, beaten.

In his fighting prime Torrible Terry McGovern was knocked down just once—by Oscar Gardner. The blow dazed McGovern so that he was helpless. But the instinct to get up was so strong that when he couldn't shove himself from the floor he crawled to where Gardner stood waitner's legs to renew the fight. As soon as he was up Terry began fighting again with a Bersark fury that soon had Gardner down—to stay. McGovern never practiced any defence; his whole defence was in the fury of his attack.

John L. Sullivan was desperate in all his fights. He was like Dempsey—always trying to win with a wild rush and in a flurry of furious fighting.

CAN'T DISSIPATE

The fierceness of his attack made him such a reputation that most of the men who met him were half beaten before they came into the ring. If Sullivan had taken care of himself he never would have been beaten until old age took away his speed and strength. But he "drank like a fish" between fights, shirked training and degenerated into a fat and flabby caricature of the great John L. who used to knock men out with blows like the thud of a caulker's mallet.

And there was Peter Maher, who came from Ireland with a punch in either mitt such as has seldom been seen. An awful hitter Peter was, and desperate enough to please anyone. I never took any stock in the tales that Peter had a yellow streak. Peter never feared any man but Fitzsimmons, and he had plenty of company

JOINS THE ESKIMOS

FRANK NIGHBOR

Calgary, Aug. 28.—That the trade in which Joe Simpson will go to Ottawa Senators and Frank Nighbor will join the Edmonton Eskimos is genuine, was vouched for by Kenny McKenzie, owner of the Eskimos, here last night. McKenzie, however, stated that the deal would be off unless the management of the Ottawa club guaranteed by next Monday that Nighbor would report.

VICTORIA CYCLISTS OUT FOR CROWN AT B.C. CHAMPIONSHIPS

Three Victoria cyclists and a dozen from other parts of the Province are expected to take part in the five and a quarter mile bicycle championship which will be a feature of the British Columbia track and field championships Saturday at Brockton Point.

Records may go smash when Vancouver's colony of weight men, considered the best in Canada, go into action. Archie McDiarmid, John Cameron, Bob Gill and Jim Wight appear to be the "big four" who will fight for honors in all weight events, but it is hoped that John Murdock of Point Grey, recently returned from the Olympic games, will post his entry before this evening.

That these four weight men are in the best of condition and "rarin' to go" is shown by the fact that in recent workouts McDiarmid set a mark of 157 feet for the sixteen-pound hammer. Cameron has made throws of over 150 feet, while he has made over forty feet in shot put.

There is a good entry for the junior events and some good performances are expected. There will be a large field in the sprints and jumps as usual.

Gameshot First Horse in Gimcrack Race in England

London, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press Cable).—The Gimcrack Plate of 1,200 sovereigns for two-year-olds, run over the six-furlong course at York to-day, was won by Sir Charles Hyde's brown filly Gameshot, by Martin out of Sunshot, which finished half-a-length ahead of Sir Herbert Tate's Rolbere, Lord Dynevor's Iceberg being third, a half-a-length behind.

Eleven horses started.

Gameshot started second favorite at 100 to 30 against, with Rolbere at 6 to 1 and the favorite, Iceberg, at 9 to 4 against.

AUTO RACING RECORDS FOR BOARD SPEEDWAYS SMASHED AT ALTOONA

Altoona, Pa., Aug. 28.—All automobile racing records for board speedways were smashed at the Speedway here yesterday when Ernie Ansterberg turned a lap in 35 4-5 seconds, at a rate of 128.7 miles per hour. The record was made in the teeth of a stiff gale. Ansterberg's mark was said by officials to be the highest ever set by a 122 cubic-inch piston displacement machine on anything but a straightaway. Jimmy Murphy and Tommy Milton both claimed the same speed two years ago, but performance was not officially credited.

GREAT ENGLISH RACING DRAMA AT COLUMBIA TO-DAY

"Come on! Loving Cup," reputed to be the greatest racing drama ever screened in England, is the attraction offering at the Columbia Theatre to-day and for the balance of the week.

Embodied in this picture is romance that will stir you to the depths. There's mystery that will keep you guessing to the very end. There's thrill upon thrill that will start your pulse pounding. And a smashing climax.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA AT DOMINION TO-NIGHT

At the Dominion Theatre at 8 o'clock to-night the Dominion Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Director Prescott, will render a pleasing synchronization for the feature attraction, "The Female," a thrilling picturization of life on the South African veldt, starring Betty Compson.

The entire programme for the evening will embrace several classical and light numbers. The usual overture preceding the feature attraction will also be rendered by the orchestra and concert organ combined. Handley Wells, the popular house organist, will preside at the console. This aggregation of instrumentalists needs no introduction to musical fans, and has always been received very favorably, and the paens of praise that the members of the orchestra have received are well deserved and highly merited. Movie fans who have not had the pleasure of hearing this aggregation play would do well to attend the Dominion Theatre to-night, where they will be heard, commencing at 8 o'clock.

CRITIC STATES ART OF SCREEN LIKE PAINTING

A critic whose writings are read nationally has said: "The more motion pictures come to look like paintings on the screen, the more they approach the perfection of their art." Whether or not this critic's opinion is generally agreed with is not a matter of importance, but it is certain that the pictorial beauties of a motion picture have infinite control over its general quality and final appeal.

"A Lady of Quality," the Universal-Jewel screen counterpart to Frances Hodgson Burnett's great novel of the same name, is showing at the Pantages Theatre.

Hobart Henley, director of "The Flirt" and others of the screen's biggest pictures, guided the filming of the old classic. Virginia Valli, featured player in many past successes, is the star.

GALAXY OF STAGE STARS APPEAR IN "SURE FIRE FLINT"

"Sure Fire Flint," at the Playhouse Theatre this week, is said to be a big production in more than one way. Of great interest to the public, aside from the merit of the picture itself, is the fact that moviegoers will witness some of the most well known Broadway stars in the depiction of Johnny Hines' latest feature.

Appearing opposite the famous "Torchy" is Doris Kenyon, who has just completed a year's run as the star of "Up The Ladder," which had such a successful season on Broadway. Miss Kenyon will also be remembered for her stellar acting in "The Girl in the Limousine," reputed to be Al. H. Wood's greatest success. Miss Kenyon's rapid rise to stardom has taken New York by storm, for in the few years that she has been performing before the public she has achieved recognition as one of the brightest lights in stageland's glittering array of stars. Her work in "Sure Fire Flint" is reported to be the best thing she has done in movieland to date, not even excepting her brilliant success with George Arliss in "The Ruling Passion."

Also included in the cast are Edmund Breese and Robert Edeson, both of whom have received the plaudits of over two generations of stage admirers. Known from coast to coast for their inimitable characterizations, these two stars are said to bring to "Sure Fire Flint" all the whimsicalities, the deftness and the life-like interpretations for which they are so well known and revered.

"BREAD" PRESENTS NEW ACHIEVEMENT IN PHOTOPLAY

"Bread," the Metro-Goldwyn picture which plays at the Capitol Theatre, is a striking achievement among recent photoplays. It is a gripping dramatization of the Charles D. Norris novel which caused such infinite discussion a season ago. It tells in graphic fashion the inside story of a troubled marriage. The cast includes Mae Busch, Robert Frazer, Pat O'Malley, Wanda Hawley, Hobart Bosworth and others.

Victor Schertzinger directed, and the screen version was prepared by Lenore Coffey and Albert Lewin. It is a Louis B. Mayer presentation.

BETTY COMPSON BRAVES LIONS IN PARAMOUNT FILM

Betty Compson, whose latest starring vehicle, "The Female," plays at the Dominion Theatre, knows how Daniel must have felt in the lion's den. In her brand new Paramount picture which Sam Wood produced from Agnes Christine Johnston's adaptation of Cynthia Stockley's gripping story, "Dalla, the Lion Cub," Miss Compson, who portrays the title role, that of an ignorant, primitive, little Boer girl, is called upon to play with several full grown lions. Furthermore, in a very tense scene, at the thrilling climax of the picture, she has to kill a lion who is about to attack the man she loves.

When Director Wood complimented her for her courage and fearlessness Betty admitted that she had been too excited to be scared!

Film fans, ever on the alert for the unusual in photoplay entertainment, will find "The Female" mighty interesting screen fare. It combines thrills, tense drama, secret plotting and a different sort of a triangular love story. While sections of the story are laid in the African desert, the majority of it takes place in the big social centres of the largest African cities.

In support of Miss Compson will be seen such sterling players as Warner Baxter, Noah Beery, Dorothy Cumming, Freeman Wood and many others equally well-known and popular. The entire production has been made on a lavish scale, and every effort has been made to reproduce the life of Africa down to its minutest details.

"The Female" is bound to be one of the most talked-about pictures of the coming season, and if you miss it you have only yourself to blame!

The Value of Charcoal

Few People Know How Useful It Is In Preserving Health and Beauty and Yet It Is Not a Drug.

Pure willow charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature.

And the more you take of it the better. It is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the injurious gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking or eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, whitens the teeth, disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh, and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best and most for the money is in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges; composed of the finest quality Willow charcoal powdered to extreme fineness, compressed in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, sweetened to be smooth and palatable.

Many physicians advise Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges to patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat. They are also believed to greatly benefit the liver. These lozenges cost but thirty cents a box at drug stores. For a free trial send your name and address to F. A. Stuart Co., 12 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich. You get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets.

THE cast which has been selected for the special Canadian company in John Golden's comedy "The First Year" which is to tour the Dominion during the coming season under the direction of Theatrical Enterprises Limited, includes several artists who have long been accepted as belonging to the front rank of Mr. Golden's brigade of purveyors of clean comedy. Among those who are now rehearsing under the expert direction of Mr. George Wright, Jr., are Mary Marble, Lucille Sears, Bert Chapman, Stella Boniface Weaver and Ray L. Royce.

Hugh D. Wilson has arrived in Montreal from England to carry out the preliminary arrangements for the presentation throughout Canada of a most unique film adaptation of the Life Story of John Lee, known the world over as "The Man They Could Not Hang." The method of presentation is decidedly novel, inasmuch as scenery is used for the proper staging of an atmosphere prologue, a Raconteur relates the salient features of this remarkable case in the annals of criminal history. Actors and vocalists are carried to enhance the general tout ensemble of the production which has already broken innumerable records throughout Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the United Kingdom. Mr. Basil Horsfall will act as sole representative for the Canadian Tours of several companies.

The Navy League has presented Mr. Percy Hutchison who is to tour Canada this season under the direction of Theatrical Enterprises Limited, with the much coveted Special Service Decoration in view of his untiring and enthusiastic propaganda work on behalf of the League. During his tours of Canada and South Africa, despite the many calls on his services, he found time to address meetings in every place he visited, thereby gaining many thousands of new members by the earnestness and forcefulness of his personality, calling for the personal feeling of unity and brotherhood which has made that Empire the stronghold it has been in the past, and which our navy has ever upheld. The presentation was made by the Marquis of Linlithgow.

STUDIES HISTORY OF INDIAN LEAGUE

Smithsonian Institution Man Tells About Famous Five Nations

Washington, Aug. 28.—The Iroquois Indians beat the League of Nations by four centuries. That is what J. N. B. Hewitt of the Bureau of American Ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution has discovered through research of the "League of the Five Nations," which held sway in the Great Lakes region when America was young. He has just returned to Washington from further investigation of the organization, of which a remnant exists to-day in the Province of Ontario and the State of New York.

NO WRITTEN RECORDS

As the Indians of old left no written records, Mr. Hewitt had to depend on tradition, as embodied in ritual, for his main source of information. As far as the present is concerned, 6,000 Indians near Brantford, Ontario, keep alive the league, under arrangement with the Canadian Government, and three small reservations in New York State more or less closely follow the old league regulations. These are the Onondaga reservations near Syracuse, with 565 Indians; the Tonawanda reservation, near Akron, with 539 Indians, and the Tuscarora reservation, near Lewiston, with 376 Indians.

TO KEEP PEACE

The preservation of peace was the objective of the League of the Five Nations. Women occupied a preeminent place in its structure, and naturalization, the referendum, initiative and recall had a place in its make-up.

The Mohawk, the Onondaga, the Oneida, Cayuga and the Seneca, tribes of Iroquoian blood, established the league, with a mature constitution, and planned to bring into the federation in time all known tribes of men as allies.

Deganawida, the prophet statesman of the Iroquois, was its leading spirit. Hiawatha (not the personage of that name immortalized by the poet Longfellow); Atotapho, a wizard who at first bitterly opposed the plan, and Djigonsasen, a noted chieftainess, urged the peaceful revolution. This was the more remarkable, Mr. Hewitt points out, in an age when fighting was fashionable.

BECAME POWERFUL

The League of the Five Nations came historically into being between 1550 and 1570. It aimed at stamping out the blood feud system, which was killing off the bravest Indians of the nations, and eradicating whatever cannibalism existed. So powerful had the League become by 1701 that it was able to turn over to the British King in trust a territory 800 miles long and 40 miles wide. Before asking others to disarm, the League disarmed itself. It was badly jarred by the War of the Revolution, Mr. Hewitt finds, but it has survived in a measure until to-day.

The Indian league had its "World Court" idea, too, for Mr. Hewitt points out that "the federal council, sitting as a court without a jury, heard and determined cases in accordance with established rules and principles of procedure and with precedent."

BARGAINING WITH CRIMINALS OPPOSED

New York Police Score District Attorney For Reducing Number of Trials

New York, Aug. 28.—Signs of friction between the police of New York City and the District Attorney have arisen as a result of the tendency of the prosecutor's office to allow criminals to "bargain" for leniency by pleading guilty to lesser charges than the ones on which they arrested by the police. Often a prisoner is able to reduce his term of imprisonment greatly by this method, as the District Attorney's staff and also the courts are saved considerable time and work when a defendant pleads guilty instead of going to trial.

SEVEN BURGLARS

The particular case which gave emphasis to the situation involved seven burglars who were captured in the American Railway Express Company's office after a revolver battle with a dozen detectives and seventeen uniformed policemen. After the police had turned the prisoners over to the District Attorney for prosecution news reached the ears of the police that the burglars were "bargaining for a plea." This meant they had offered to save the State the trouble of holding their trial if the District Attorney's office would arrange things so they could "get off easy" by pleading guilty of lesser degrees of burlary.

LONG RECORDS

Although the police said all the prisoners had long criminal records, under this plan the seven would receive sentences of five years each, which under the prison laws probably would result in the prisoners being freed in less than two years.

The police feel resentment strongly in such cases as they oppose any offer of leniency when they have risked their lives in capturing a criminal.

Following in Grandpa's Footsteps

Willie's got it too!

For unfailing jollity and cast-iron optimism there's not a pin to choose between the old chap and the young chap — because the one's just as brimful of bounding health as the other.

But even boyhood is not proof against boyhood ills. The most vigorous of youngsters are sometimes out of sorts.

When your kiddies develop "moods," lose interest in their lessons and their play, are naughty without apparent reason, or mope listlessly about the place you should recognize at once the danger-signals. Something is wrong with their health. They may have eaten something to upset them, or perhaps they are constipated. Whatever the trouble may be, they cannot become their cheery little selves again until it is removed.

There is one safe, simple way to remedy all these minor ills of childhood: to stir a tiny dose of Kruschen Salts into the child's tea or cocoa or bowl of porridge. The tiniest pinch suffices — about "half a dimeful" — and they never know they're taking it, because given in this way it's quite tasteless. There's no fear of "horrid medicine" scenes with Kruschen.

The tiny dose gently but surely expels all waste clogging matter from the small insides. Next day the kiddies wake up with "that Kruschen feeling," energy and high spirits completely restored.

Don't wait for your children to be ill. Buy a 75c bottle for the nursery to-day, and be prepared.

Tasteless in Tea
cocoa, milk or porridge. Give each child "just a pinch"—and stir it well in.

Kruschen Salts

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

A 75c bottle of Kruschen Salts contains 360 doses—nearly enough for six months—which means bounding health for less than half a cent a day. The dose prescribed for daily use for adults is "as much as will lie on a 10 cent piece," taken in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea. Every druggist sells Kruschen. Get a 75c bottle to-day.

CUTTING OUT DELAYS—English aviators are now practicing at Farnborough a new service method of speeding up communications, by picking up message bags from the ground. The photo shows an aeroplane just after picking up a message bag suspended between two posts on the ground. The bag is picked up by a hook dangling from the aeroplane itself.

THEY GUARDED STILL—Federal agents ran into two veritable Amazons when they attempted to confiscate a still on a farm near St. Paul. The girls, Florence Friermuth, fifteen, and her sister, Mrs. Susie Friermuth Doing, had to be disarmed, the raiders reported, before the still could be seized. The girls' father, Alex. Friermuth, was arrested as the operator of the "moonshine" plant. After unloading the guns, the agents permitted the girls to pose with their artillery.

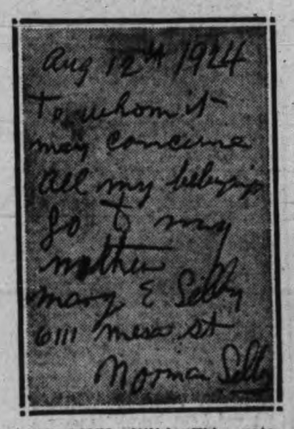
AT PRINCE'S FRENCH DANCE—Lord and Lady Mountbatten were guests of honor at the Prince of Wales' farewell dinner dance in Deauville. They are also coming to America to see the international polo games at the Meadow Brook Club.

JEAN FINALLY JOINS "BOBS"—Jean Marrey, famous French movie actress, is the latest recruit to the ever-growing "bobbed-haired army." Jean kept her tresses for a long time, but finally gave way to the barber's scissors. This is her first picture since she had her hair bobbed.

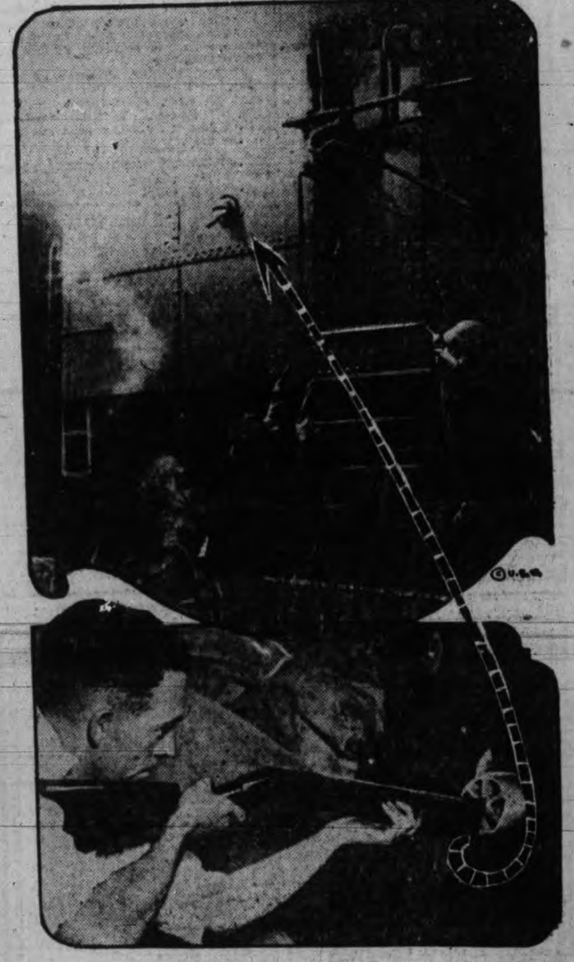
CROWN PRINCE BECOME PRIEST—George of Saxony, erstwhile crown prince, who, having chosen the vocation of priest, officiated this week for the first time in Dresden.

IN CHINESE FLOOD ZONE—This is the first picture from the flood zone around Kalgan, China, to reach this country. It shows the Hua Sheng Miao Temple, almost undermined by the river which flowed up to its very walls. It was at Kalgan that the flood, that for a time endangered all northern China, reached its climax.

BRINGS CHEER TO LITTLE CHRONIC INVALID—Evelyn Nesbit, former wife of Harry K. Thaw, is shown here chatting with little Sophia Rokus at Atlantic City. Sophie, twelve, has spent all her life in bed. She is a favorite of Mrs. Coolidge and the two correspond.



McCOY'S WILL—This note, written by Kid McCoy, was found in the apartment of Mrs. Theresa Mors following her death. Police contend it indicates the pugilist had intended killing the woman and then ending his own life.



MAIL-CAR MADE BANDIT-PROOF—If the bullet-proof armored mail-car, tried out by postal authorities on the New York Central tracks near Brewster, N.Y., becomes popular, mail-train robbers will have to seek less hazardous work. As the "bandits" stormed the train, an automatic magnesium flash, released from within, flooded the countryside with light and dazzled the hold-up men. They kept blazing away, without making even a dent, until a mail clerk, safe from exposure, opened fire with a riot gun controlled through a special universal joint and routed them post haste.

NEW ENVOY—This is Edgar Addison Bancroft, new American Ambassador to Japan. Bancroft lawyer and author, is a brother of the historian, Frederick Bancroft. His home is in Chicago.

FIRST CASUALTY IN ONTARIO GOVERNMENT AIR PATROL—Kenneth MacBride, second son of M. M. MacBride, M.P.P., Brantford, Ont., who was killed when a government forest patrol plane in which he was flying crash at Savanne, near Port Arthur, Ont.

SETS EXAMPLE—Mrs. C. T. Yang, a Manchu lady of old nobility, has set a new style—not a whim of luxury, but a necessity born of poverty. For centuries Manchu women shopped discreetly in their own courtyards, paying a higher price. But with money hard to get Mrs. Yang startled her social set by bargaining in the public markets, carrying a bag of copper coins. Now others are following her economical example.

THIS CHAP HAS AMBITION—Dimetrios Sigelakis, twenty-six of Hoboken, N.J., is planning a round-the-world trip in the Carcharias. The boat is only twenty-two feet long and seven feet wide. It has a draft of less than a foot.

LOOKS LIKE PRINCE—Because of his resemblance to the Prince of Wales, Jack Clifford has been chosen to depict the Prince of Wales in the pageant at the Canadian National Exhibition. At the top is Clifford and below the "Smiling Prince."

ON VACATION—Mme. Milos Hanak, wife of the Secretary of the Legation of Czechoslovakia, is enjoying an extended vacation through the north.

CAR COMPANY USES UNIQUE ADVERTISING—"White Cars" are being used by the Northern Texas Traction Company of which George H. Clifford is general manager, to "sell" to the public the idea that riding street cars is both economical and convenient. Traffic problems, with their many dangers, have caused car company officials to campaign for a "back to the trolley" movement.

NEW YORK MARKET LOWER AT CLOSE

New York, N.Y. Aug. 28. (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—During the forepart of to-day's session the list maintained a steady tone reflecting a favorable interpretation on to-day's advices touching on the general situation. In the afternoon however, the market turned somewhat reactionary and in some instances losses of a point and more were recorded from the closing figures of last night. There was no particular news in circulation to account for the afternoon selling and floro observers ventured the opinion that many of the offerings represented a desire to reduce commitments in advance of the holiday, also some of the professional element were active on the selling side for a turn.

An outstanding feature of to-day's news was the report of car loadings for the week ending August 16, which was shown at a new high mark for the current year. This was taken to reflect the impression which is being recorded in business activity and also an index of expansion in trade with the approach of the Fall season. The market will have to contend with some further realizing in advance of the holiday but we don't anticipate any material recessions from current levels and rather feel that the advantage should be taken of any further declines to reinstate some long holdings.

GENERAL TONE STRONG; HIGHER PRICES LIKELY

Chicago, Ills., Aug. 28 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—Wheat: The Canadian reports to-day were of a different character and more in harmony with which is known of general condition and the estimates from reliable sources indicating yields 250,000,000 to 300,000,000 for three provinces which means that Europe will have to keep on buying our wheat.

The absence of pressure on September indicates that the liquidation of past week or ten days was pretty thorough.

The technical position of the market is good, Gulf premiums are hardening. Foreigners are taking the wheat right along and the general tone is so strong that higher prices are likely. The Spring wheat hedging is still in the offering but with a big business in flour, the domestic demand for Spring wheat is likely to offset the pressure from the northwest.

The situation looks strong especially as the volume of export business continues big.

Corn: Advanced further with no change in the conditions which have made possible the price levels. There is no hedging of consequence which is the best evidence that producers are worried about new crop. Outlook cash prices did not quite keep pace with the futures but there is a strong undertone with fair oats demand at current prices. Weather fine generally but rain needed in Southern Nebraska and Northern Kansas where prospects have been about the best of any place in the belt.

We look for wide and nervous fluctuations and would but only on the extreme declines.

Oats: Big receipts had little effect on oats which were strong and higher. The cash demand was good with fair offerings. The present price level is so cheap compared to corn, usual hedging pressure is well taken. On the setbacks oats should be bought as the market will keep pace with other grains.

Rye: This market shows signs of coming to life and there is growing appreciation of strong relative position of this grain with active commission house buying and much more active export business sales to-day being close to 500,000 bushels. Rye is selling at 22 cents under corn for December delivery and this difference will turn a big feeding demand to rye while the European conditions assure a big import business. Look for rye to advance and also to sell closer to a normal parity with wheat and corn.

TYSON GOON IN VANCOUVER GIVEN TERM IN PRISON

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—Five years in the penitentiary was the term handed out by Judge Cayley to-day to Tyson Goon, Chinese teller in the Pender Street East branch of the Bank of Montreal, when the latter pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery and one of theft involving sums totalling $3,500.

Wheat Pool Claims Small Wheat Crop

Winnipeg, Aug. 28.—The Canadian Wheat Pool in The Winnipeg Tribune last evening sharply criticizes The Manitoba Free Press' report of yesterday, claiming that the high average yields estimated by The Free Press' authorities are not warranted by Canadians.

Yesterday's Free Press estimate placed the Canadian crop at 350,000,000 bushels.

The directors of the wheat pool estimate the wheat crop of Western Canada at 260,000,000 bushels.

LIQUOR RESTRICTIONS

More stringent regulations are in prospect which will make the export business much less profitable than it is at present.

STORMS HAMPER SHIPPING CLOSE TO ATLANTIC COAST

Captain Loses Life When Giant Wave Carries Him Overboard

Ss. Arabic Suffers Heavily; Berengaria Did Not Feel Gale

New York, Aug. 28.—Five liners, bearing copious evidence of having won a struggle against a hurricane which on Tuesday lashed the western Atlantic into a seething cauldron steamed into the harbor here yesterday, several hours late, with hulls intact, but their fittings smashed and battered by the force of the waves.

Only one life was taken, the steamship Elisha Walker reporting that Captain M. J. Madsen had been swept overboard from the bridge of the Danish ship Nordfarer while south of Cape Hatteras.

The records of half a hundred injured passengers and sailors who required care of surgeons on the Arabic and Homeric, White Star Greyhounds, scores of others who suffered minor hurts and innumerable stories of heroism and thrilling escapes provided material for the spinning of fresh yarns in every forecastle on the Atlantic.

Captain Hickson of the Arabic whose vessel and passengers were the major victims, said the wind at times attained an intensity of 120 miles an hour and Captain Metcalfe of the Homeric asserted it was the worst within his memory.

NEARLY CAPSIZED

Both said that while the firemen pressed the engines to capacity to keep the vessel's bows heading into the wind, they were stopped dead in their tracks, with cross waves pounding at their sides. The Arabic on numerous occasions listed dangerously close to the 45 degree angle which would have capsized her.

The Munargo of the Munson Line, and the Orizaba of the Ward Line suffered less than the other two vessels, while the Guiseppe Verdi, whose captain had brought her from Genoa, exhibited a smashed funnel sixty feet above the waterline where waves had struck her.

FIFTY-TWO SERIOUSLY INJURED

The Arabic had an estimated casualty list of more than 150, with fifty-two persons who required treatment. Of these, thirty-three were under the care of surgeons when the vessel docked, met by ambulances which had been summoned by wireless.

Injuries ranged from hands cut by broken porthole glass an inch thick, crushed by the waves, to a fracture of the back suffered by a sailor when he threw himself in front of a child who would otherwise have been hurled against a wall.

The interior of the Arabic was said to be in indescribable confusion from the time the gale broke at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon until it subsided hours later. The first warning of it was a mountain of water which broke over the upper deck.

The saloon, where many persons were dining, and the lounge, where others reclined in ignorance of the approaching storm, immediately became scenes of bedlam, with passengers' furnishings and water mingled and thrown from side to side with the movement of the waves.

High tribute was paid by the passengers to the gallantry and fearlessness of the crew in restoring order after the storm.

SALOON AS HOSPITAL

A large number of the passengers passed Tuesday night on improvised beds of tables or the open deck, while the dining saloon became a hospital and the more seriously injured lay on cots wherever they were found. Volunteer passenger physicians under the guidance of the ship surgeon ministered to their needs with the aid of stewards.

The Mundell, from San Pedro, arrived at quarantine late at night, where a tug took off Captain B. F. Smith, critically injured when a large piece of wood on the crest of a wave hit him in the face.

The Homeric fared much better than the Arabic, having only eight of her passengers seriously injured and much less damage to the vessel.

The Berengaria, whose passenger list bears the name of the Prince of Wales, apparently was outside of the hurricane's borders as dispatches received from the ship to-day made no mention of unusual weather.

New York, Aug. 28.—There were no Canadians among the fifty more or less seriously injured passengers of the White Star liner Arabic, which received a terrible drubbing in the hurricane which caught her between Halifax and New York. On the arrival of the much-battered liner at her dock here last night a check-up failed to show any passengers from the Dominion suffering from dangerous injuries.

HEROIC FIREMAN

Among the more severe casualties was Patrick Carney, fireman, who, to save a little girl from being smashed against the side of the dining saloon when the Arabic reeled under a gigantic wave, used his body as a buffer and probably suffered a fracture of the spine. A pur

The Surprising Sex

By MILDRED BARBOUR—Author of "Love Stakes," Etc.

It was handsomely furnished with a richness and taste that awed Julie. Her father had owned some valuable things—a prayer rug or two, a bit of priceless porcelain, a few exquisite prints, and tea set that an empress had once used; but, in the main, the house on Donovan Street was rather shabbily turned out. Years of a bohemian, roving existence had bred in Latimer a contempt for chattels.

Blake's house represented the taste of a cultured, traveled gentleman. Many of its choicest pieces had been picked up during his sojourn on the Continent. There were fine rugs and tapestries and bits of pottery that intrigued Julie's fancy, and his library, furnished with masculine simplicity, had many rare and beautiful editions among the books that lined its walls.

The sunny upstairs sitting-room assigned for Julie's exclusive use, opening off a cheerful bedroom, became instantly dear to her. Blake, before she left for Washington, had filled it with all the old familiar pieces which had been Latimer's. His thoughtfulness made the girl's eyes swim with tears. Often she would sit there in the shadowy dusk and feel herself very close to the gallant, beloved spirit that had passed on. In the desk was his unfinished manuscript, just as he had laid it away on that last evening. Some day she would take it out and read it again. Some day when her tears no longer blurred the fine, distinctive script.

The night Blake had gone away she had been filled with sharp, poignant terror. She came very near begging to be taken along. He represented her last link with a cherished past. She was afraid, horribly shy, with Mrs. Ames. She had never before known a woman intimately. There had been a charwoman who came once a week to the house on Donovan Street and a teacher or two during her brief attendance at school. But never before had she been left alone with a stranger woman for her sole companion.

Mrs. Ames was kindly and tactful. She made no effort to force Julie's friendship, and gradually, little by little like some shy woodland thing, the girl drew closer to her.

One day a headache laid the housekeeper low, and Julie, her shyness and awkwardness forgotten in her sympathy, ministered to the sufferer all day long with iced towels and lavender salts. In the evening, when the pain was less, she prepared an appetizing tray and took it to the bedside.

"You make better toast than I do," declared Mrs. Ames. "And I've always prided myself that nobody could beat me."

Julie flushed with pride.

"I can cook—really. Dad wouldn't touch the food anyone else prepared."

A thoughtful look crept into the housekeeper's eyes.

"Maybe you'd like to stir around in the kitchen a bit. It'd be a godsend to me. A body gets so tired of her own cooking."

The last barrier was down. After that there was no more constraint or shyness. Julie, for the first time, became chummy with one of her own sex. She and Mrs. Ames concocted wonderful dishes in the kitchen. Julie showed the older woman what the latter termed 'fancy cooking." She made savory piquant dishes with spices and curry, such as Horace Latimer had learned to like in the Orient. All sorts of odd viands that Mrs. Ames had never heard of made their appearance under Julie's nimble fingers.

In the evening, the two women adjourned to Julie's sitting-room, where a cosy fire burned and Peter, brought from Donovan Street, purred contentedly on the hearthstone. Julie, curled up in an armchair, was instantly buried in a book, and Mrs. Ames knitted placidly. It was a peaceful, happy existence for the girl, not far different from her life with the recluse.

Mrs. Ames, laying down her work occasionally to stare at the bright, tawny head bent over some weighty volume, would shake her own head disapprovingly.

It didn't seem natural to her that youth should be so solitary. There ought to be other young people about. And the girl's choice of books, too—what Julie read privately shocked Mrs. Ames. In her own youth, young girls read Jane Austin and Mrs. Southworth and, if they were very headstrong, the Duchess. She wished Jimmy Phillips would hurry up and finish college even if he was "a no-count." At least he'd be a youthful influence for Julie.

The good lady was painfully startled and puzzled by Julie's ecstatic reception of the news that Blake was coming home for a brief visit.

THE NEW CONGRESSMAN

John Blake arrived in Washington without any of the illusions which betray the average new Congressman.

He had no exaggerated idea of his own importance. He didn't regard himself as the coming political savior of a down-trodden people. He didn't expect to be met at Union Station by a brass band and an official representation of citizens, or to cause a ripple of excitement by his first appearance on the floor of the House of Representatives. He didn't believe—or intimate to the press—that, now he had arrived, the wheels of government would turn more swiftly.

As a matter of fact, he didn't care at all for his position. He had merely accepted it as the first necessary step in a career which he meant to carve out for himself. But he expected to discharge duties which were irksome and often times unpleasant to the best of his ability. His sense of humor saved him from many moments of downright tedium. It also precluded the exalted sense of personal importance which is the pitfall of so many well-meaning lawmakers.

As a matter of fact, he created more of an impression than he knew. One of his old friends, Col. Walker, now resident in Washington, was enthusiastically espousing a local betterment movement. In a dilemma caused by the sudden illness of the speaker he had listed for an important public meeting, Col. Walker happily remembered Blake's gift for speech-making and besought him to fill the breach. Blake's friendliness prompted him to oblige.

DANCE ON RAFT MOORED IN LAKE

Cowichan Lake Logging Camps Getting Ready to Open Again

Lake Cowichan, Aug. 28.—On Saturday night a dance was organized by the Lake Cowichan Orchestra.

The fact that the dance was to be held on a raft moored to the lake shore added a touch of novelty to the affair and attracted a large crowd of merrymakers.

A fire in the roof of Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Tiderington's home caused some excitement during the afternoon, and had it not been for prompt action on the part of neighbors serious damage might have resulted. As it was, a large hole was burnt in the roof before the fire could be extinguished.

With the partial resumption of logging operations, the hospital question is again being mooted. However, it is not likely that anything will be done until the camps are again working in full force. A heavy rainfall would improve the situation considerably.

The Charter Logging Company are working one side, but owing to lack of water for the donkey engines are at present unable to operate to any large extent. The Genoa Logging Company are expected to reopen their camp up the lake before the end of the month.

The James Logging Co. are putting in a new railway spur. Several pole camps are in operation in the district.

Oscar Rundquist is building another large dining-room in connection with his restaurant for the accommodation of those employed in the logging industry.

BUSH DRY ON SALT SPRING ISLAND

Ganges, Salt Spring Island, Aug. 28—Fire in a slashing on the property of Mr. Norman Wilson occasioned some alarm on Tuesday evening when the reflection of the flame was seen in the sky. Many Island residents proceeded in cars to the scene, but found that the fire was already under control. Dry weather continues, with considerable heat.

ACCIDENT IS SECOND IN YEAR

Ladysmith to be Represented at Hospitals' Meeting

(Special to The Times)

Ladysmith, Aug. 28.—For the second time in a year Mr. James Willott, superintendent of the Timberland Development Camp near here has been taken to the Hospital suffering from a broken leg caused through an accident at the camp. There were several persons with Mr. Willott at the time of the accident, but all others escaped injury.

Considerable work is being done by the Victoria Lumber Company preparing for the re-opening of their camp No. 9. The railway is being put in shape to handle the expected heavy shipments of logs and the unloading wharf is to be re-built.

Some very fine catches of salmon are being made off the north end of Thetis Island and at the Gap. One fair lady from here caught twenty-eight good-sized fish on Saturday last, averaging eight pounds per fish.

WILL BUY WATER METERS FOR DUNCAN

Special to The Times

Duncan, Aug. 27.—At a meeting of the Duncan City Council held on Tuesday evening, the purchase of $500 worth of water meters was authorized as the first step towards the ultimate goal of a complete metered city in three years' time.

The council endorsed the fire wardens in that no fire calls from outside the city would be responded to by the fire department. Criticism of the department has been made lately for failing to attend a fire about a mile outside the city; and this was held to be unjustified.

FISHING BUSY

Special to The Times

Cowichan Bay, Aug. 27.—The fishing continues very good. On Tuesday morning Col. Collard had a fine catch, total weight being just 100 pounds.

On Sunday the race for the Stillwell Cup was commenced. There was a very stiff breeze and the race was not finished.

Camping is in full swing. Many parties are enjoying the glorious sunshine for bathing and boating.

A RECORD CATCH

Special to The Times

Duncan, Aug. 27.—While fishing in Cowichan Bay on Wednesday morning, Jimmy Page, an Indian, caught a fifty-seven and one-half pound salmon with a No. 7 Stewart spoon. It measures 3 feet 10 inches long, 31 inches round and is a record catch for Cowichan Bay.

ISLAND STRATEGIC IN ITS CONTROL OF NEEDED RESOURCES

with a maximum degree of comfort. By sea and rail and motor roads we have easy ascess to all the beauties of this Wonderland at very little cost. Surely with all these gifts we should be the most happy and contented people.

"Wisely it has been ordained that man can only progress where the opportunity is given him for work and enterprise, and it is this phase which impels us to turn to the future with a knowledge that we are but pioneers placed as the trustees in charge of illimitable wealth to be utilized for the benefit of ourselves and those to follow.

GROWING PRODUCTION

"Vancouver Island to-day is producing and shipping some thirty million dollars worth of natural products a year from it's shores. This, with our manufacturers and returns from outside investment, means that divided among our sparse population of some 100,000 there is an annual per capita income sufficient in any one year to pay off our share of the capital debt of the Dominion of Canada. In addition to this we have the facilities for producing all the necessities of life, not alone for ourselves, but for a far greater population. Our timber wealth has never been accurately gauged. It is estimated that we have over two million carloads of first-class standing timber that will in the future be exported from this Island either in the form of logs or cut lumber.

OUR FORESTS

"In addition we have our forests of tamarack, spruce and hemlock. More than half the standing timber of British Columbia is on Vancouver Island. We are destined to form one of the great pulp producing sections of the continent. The forests of Washington and Oregon are being rapidly depleted and at the present rate of progress their life is estimated at another fifteen or twenty years. Before that time the Southern Pine will have become exhausted. In that day the North American continent will pay tribute to the timber of Vancouver Island, and ships will carry our lumber to all parts of the civilized world.

OUR COAL FIELDS

"Our coal fields cover a known area of 2,000 square miles, being the only high grade bituminous areas on the Pacific Coast from Prince Rupert to Cape Horn. There is at present a supply blocked out in our mines that will last for the next hundred years. The depressions existing to-day in the coal industry is only a cycle of economic life. Man has not yet solved the problem of doing without it.

"The oil fields of the American continent are estimated to last another twenty-five years, and at that time this Island will be producing coal to furnish power and fuel for mankind, and will be able to for centuries to come. There is much reason to hope that the research work now being carried on will solve the problem of the economic use of coal. Experiments are proving that powdered coal injected in blast form will give a greater heat unit per dollar of cost with low prices installation than crude oil, and there is hope that we may again be nearing the point when coal will once more be king. At the present time there is being consumed in this Province alone, some twelve million dollars' worth of imported fuel oil per year, value enough to support an additional population of 40,000 directly and far more indirectly. Should it eventuate that some form of coal product becomes one of the most economic forms of power, Vancouver Island with its coal supremacy on this Coast will through this medium alone enter a new era of prosperity.

WATER POWERS

"Our undeveloped water powers are of such magnitude that there is no possiblity of their being unable to cope with any possible demand that might be made for required power. It has been reported that the Campbell River Power Company have under immediate consideration the installation of a large Hydro-Electric plant, and this alone would be capable of supplying the entire present requirements of Vancouver Island with electrical power at low cost. Wherever we turn on the Island there is this same latent energy going to waste but offering a gurantee of future commercial opportunity.

"The Island possesses remarkable surface showings of iron ore, both magnetic and hematite, on which very little real work has yet been done to prove their commercial suitability. These iron ore bodies give indications that they at least equal in extent all the other iron resources of British Columbia, which are near enough to the Coast to be of any value. There is also the fact that as yet there has not been found any good iron ore on the Pacific Coast south of this province.

"Taken in conjunction with our coal fields, great future possibilities can be visualized. Our metalliferous deposits have hardly been prospected. We know that in the past we have had two copper-gold mines of considerable proportions, and in the Sunloch and Coast Copper Companies are two new properties which engineers report may prove to be among the largest of the continent.

"When we consider that very little prospecting has been carried on in the E. & N. Railway belt, we must realize that mining development on this Island is as yet in its infancy, but that we possess great potential wealth in this regard is already established beyond doubt.

"Much may be said for the future of the small fruit industry and poultry raising, where our climatic conditions cannot be equaled in North America.

MANUFACTURING PROSPECTS

"Let us now regard this Island from a manufacturing point of view. We have to the east of us the Western Prairies, already the second wheat producing area in the world, and yet not more than five per cent of its soil is under cultivation. When we take into consideration that ninety-five per cent more of its lands are still waiting to be tilled and that in spite of this it is already supporting some two million people, we can comprehend the extent of its future growth and the market that it will afford when it has become the greatest granary of the world.

"We must remember that Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba have very little timber, their coal is chiefly lignite and not bituminous, and they have very little iron and their available water powers are limited.

"On the other side, on the west of us lies the great Pacific, destined to become the world's greatest trade route, offering the most advantageous facilities for reaching the markets of the Orient. China alone has a population four times as great as the American continent. She cannot produce flour making wheat by reason of soil and climatic conditions. When this Oriental nation becomes, as it will, a bread consumer and versed in occidental ways, a market will be opened for manufactured goods almost beyond our comprehension. I call attention to this future and as yet undeveloped market because Vancouver Island stands pre-eminently fitted to produce and supply finished materials to these markets with advantages almost unequalled.

"We have right at our doors the coal, the timber, the copper, possibly the iron, and the facilities for producing cheap electrical labor. Given these conditions with a climate where manufacturing can be conducted the year round under favorable climatic conditions for labor, and direct water freight rates, we should surely be able to vie with the world's competitive markets.

TOURIST TRAFFIC

"If I have not already said enough to stir your imagination, I would remind you that there is yet one more industry which we can create into one of greater value in the immediate future into one aforementioned—I speak of the tourist traffic. With 125,000,000 at our doors possessing more than half the wealth of the world, fast learning to travel and play, living at high tension, seeking relief by relaxation which their own country can only offer them continuously when artificially provided, we have the one spot on the American Continent free from extremes of climate and free from pests, where man can join with Nature 365 days of the year.

"I beg of you to try to realize that all this wonderful land which I have told you about only in part and to which much more could be added, is placed in trust with only 100,000 people, you and me and our fellow citizens—a great heritage, but a still greater responsibility. It is right up to us to prove ourselves big enough and courageous enough to be worthy of our great trust. Better to try to fail than not to try at all.

UNITY NEEDED

"If you ask me what should be done to make the most of our opportunities, I tell you frankly that it is not a problem that any one man can solve. It is a case for us all and the objectives which we can set ourselves to accomplish can only be reached by acting in unison and by the closets co-operation between every community on this Island, standing shoulder to shoulder and working together with unselfish motives for the accomplishment of our great destiny. We gladly welcome those who will come and live with us, but we must remember that outside communities will exploit us for the dollars to be gained. I have said that the industry nearest at hand is the tourist traffic. Yet I would remind you that in spite of what I have said as to the population at our doors and their desire and opportunity for frequenting this Island, we are spending less than one-fiftieth of a cent per head on this market to bring to their attention the advantages of Vancouver Island, which, if they but knew, so many would willingly take advantage of. Worse still, we are doing very little to furnish the facilities which we know full well are required by a numerous and discriminating people, and of this I will give you an illustration:

PLAYGROUND OF AMERICA

"The C.P.R. has stated that it proposes to make Vancouver Island the great playground of America. We have increased by ten times during the last few years our car ferry systems. This year the tourist traffic to Victoria has doubled over 1923, every tourist who comes to our city is given information about every district of the Island and advised to visit it. Yet we find that north of Nanaimo the traffic is fifty per cent. less than last year. Why? Bad roads. The people of the United States are accustomed to hard-surfaced smooth roads, and they will not drive to any extent north of the Malahat under present conditions, or where they do, they limit their touring as much as possible.

"With the great road work that has developed on the Pacific Coast of the United States it is essential that at the earliest date the main highways of Vancouver Island should be hard-surfaced and maintained in a condition that will develop the tourist traffic and not drive it away as at present. Many tourists are now coming over by way of Nanaimo and are chiefly turning southward because they desire to reach the good roads and enjoy the benefits of the hotel accommodation and golf facilities which they nearly all crave and which they can obtain in the city of Victoria to the event desired.

"I submit that it is necessary if the upper end of the Island is to play its part in this traffic, that it must be furnished with first-class roads, good golf links at convenient points, and the best of hotel accommodation everywhere.

VICTORIA'S PART

"In concluding I would like to say a word as to the great and unselfish part that Victoria has and is still playing in assisting the development of the whole Island. More than half the subjects which are discussed and acted upon in the Victoria Chamber of Commerce deal with the development of the Island as a whole. The City of Victoria has already spent nearly half a million dollars in the aggregate subscribed by its citizens for the purpose of advertising, not Victoria, but Vancouver Island. Every tourist who comes to our city is given information setting forth the charms of every district. Our advertising deals with every section of the Island available by road.

"We recently submitted to a large corporation a comprehensive plan for tourist development, and in that plan were embodied the furnishing of hotel accommodation and municipal golf links and other amusements at all major points on the Island. When the Canadian Senate defeated the Bill for Island railway extension, Victoria was the first to jump into the breach and insist upon the reversal of this decision, and it was done with the full knowledge that the building of one of the branch lines would deflect the shipments of logs now coming to our harbor, but we were big enough to view the situation not from the standpoint of Victoria alone but Islandwise.

"I want to assure every district on the Island that your Big Brother south of the Malahat is right with you and holding out the hand of help and co-operation, and is prepared to play his part unselfishly for the good of the whole.

ASSOCIATED BOARDS OF TRADE

"The Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island are doing excellent work, but meeting together once a year and passing a few resolutions will not solve our problems. We must get together, pledge ourselves to unity, and select a body of representative men who will give their time to the working out of comprehensive schemes and have the force to carry them through to successful conclusion. Such a body would restore confidence and would warrant the spending of the necessary money to work out our great destiny, because we must realize that a great deal of money has got to be spent, and it should be spent by ourselves rather than always looking to outsiders to come in and do everything for us."

White Bear Cub In Park Arouses Ire of S.P.C.A.

The monthly meeting of the S.P.C.A. committee was presided over by W. B. Pease, considerable business being discussed.

The complain received regarding the condition of pack horses at Jasper Park was referred to various authorities in the district and assurance was received that the horses would be protected. Performing animals and undesirable picture films also came up for discussion, authentic evidence having been received from various directions, including the Animal Defence League of Los Angeles.

Persons who have a natural dislike to seeing animals in captivity have sent in complaints regarding the unnatural habitat of the recent addition to the park animals, special reference being made to the white bear cub.

Mr. Kermode, on being approached, stated that the bear would receive the best attention and possibly better surroundings.

The custom of not milking cows which are offered for sale, was also discussed. The habit, being a cruel one, will not be tolerated by the society, and owners and auctioneers have been asked to prevent such occurrence in the future.

The Winnipeg S.P.C.A. has again approached the Canadian societies with a view to Dominion amalgamation.

The inspector's report included the follows cases: Cats, 17 (14 destroyed); horses, 7 (3 destroyed); chickens, 3; cows, 2; dogs, 5; pigeons, 1; lion, 1; miscellaneous, 2. Cases in court, 1; conviction, 1.

Poison notices have been widely posted offering a reward for any evidence to the conviction of the offenders.

A lengthy programme of sports was run off with keen competition in all classes. Ladies took a prominent part in the proceedings and captured many prizes in the athletic events. The car given away by ticket was won by J. Aaronson, Johnson Street. Mr. Aaronson was not at the picnic, but the spoils will be delivered to him to-day.

The prize winners were:

CALIFORNIAN LIBRARIANS COULD NOT COME NOW

Present Convention Might Have Been Much Larger, Ex-President Says

Delegates Devote To-day to Sight-seeing, and Will Visit Local Libraries

That the Pacific Northwest Library Association meeting here might have been a much larger body than it proved to be was revealed by the outgoing president, John Ridington, at the meeting of the convention last evening. He pointed out that unexpected difficulties had prevented the plan of the California Library Association to meet with them this year, as had been planned. It was improbable that the gathering of the two Coast chapters would be brought about in 1925, because it was expected the national organization would come to some large city on the Pacific Coast, probably to Seattle, in 1925, and under those circumstances it was unwise to force another large gathering in the Northwest next year. He therefore expressed a belief that the joint meeting of the Pacific Northwest and California Library Associations would be held in 1926. A message from the California body was then read amid cheers.

This morning the library party was driven to the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, where the instruments were explained by officials of the institution, and then a visit was paid to the Butchart gardens.

This afternoon there is a garden party at Government House in honor of the visitors. This evening members will visit the city public library and the Provincial collection. The Minister of Education will welcome the guests at the Connaught library at 9 o'clock. Outside the Parliament buildings there will be a concert by the 5th Regiment band, which will commence at 7.30 o'clock.

To-morrow the entertainment for the librarians in Vancouver will be conducted, with a full programme, including a visit to the university site at Point Grey, where the new university library building is rising in company with other structures.

FINE EXHIBIT

Among the finest exhibits in the main building at the Willows exhibition was that of the W. A. Jameson Coffee Company, of this city. The exhibit was arranged on a stand built after the style of a pergola, the roof being covered with ivy and the interior decorated with Chinese lanterns and cut flowers. "Jameson's Coffee" has long been the hall mark of good coffee in British Columbia, but besides being large importers, roasters and packers of choice coffees, the firm also manufactures large quantities of flavoring extracts. They also make the well-known brand of "Feather-Light" baking powder which to-day is used by many of the most particular chefs in British Columbia. Effervescent Persian sherbet and lemonade crystals, two delicious and refreshing Summer drinks, are other well-known lines that they manufacture. Jameson's are also large importers and blenders of all kinds of tea. They carry in stock many of the world's choicest growths of Indian, Ceylon, China and Japan teas. Sixty years of experience in the Canadian tea trade has given the Jameson family much knowledge of the kind and character of tea required for such trade. They use their name as the brand of their products and "Quality and Service" is their motto.

PASTORALIST HERE FROM W. AUSTRALIA

Pastoral conditions in Western Australia are fairly good, according to R. Newman, of Carnarvon, a section of the Northwest district which has always been remarkable for its advantages as a stock country.

Mr. Newman was at the Dominion Hotel for a few days, and left to-day for Hongkong, en route home. He has been traveling leisurely, and has spent several weeks in Canada. Mr. Newman is a pioneer of the Northwest, having first gone into that section in 1884. Like many other industries which produce food stuffs, the mutton and wool industry of that section has steadily developed in the past few years, and large fortunes have been made by the pastoralists of the state.

The vastness of the state has created grazing conditions unparalleled in the British Empire, perhaps in the world, as the state law permits, Mr. Newman pointed out that a pastoralist may hold 1,000,000 acres, and by company organization some graziers are actually controlling several million acres for sheep and cattle.

The system of driving cattle to the coast in Western Australia is unequalled in the world, and from the desert interior cases exist where the animals can be watered and rested in their great marches across the sandy wilderness.

MARVELLOUS CURES CLAIMED FOR NEW FINGER SURGERY

Dr. V. B. Taylor, formerly of Vancouver, but now resident in this city, returned this week from the Fiftieth Annual Convention of the American Osteopathic Association, held this year at Kirkville, Mo. Dr. Taylor reported steady growth of the practice of what is termed "finger surgery," that is treatment of physical defects by manipulation.

In one case, that of a four year old boy, deaf from birth, hearing was restored, it is claimed, after a brief term of treatment by the osteopathic method. Madame Melba, and Madame Galli Curci, he says, are warm believers of this modern cult, the last named having recently completed a series of concerts at the Osteopath Hospital for Children, at New York, in appreciation for the benefits received from the method.

Dr. Taylor, who is a Canadian by birth and claims Brantford, Ontario, as his home town, studied for four years at the American School of Osteopathy, and was assistant to Dr. J. E. Edwards, founder of the finger surgery method, for some time after graduation. He is now opening an office at Room 404 Pemberton Building.
